NEVER SET SAIL ON FRIDAY —

When Andy Whittaker rowed ashore February 26 to clear out of Chile's remote Robinson Crusoe Island, the plan was for him and his wife, Rhian Salmon, to set sail for Easter Island that afternoon. But something in his gut told him to stay another day. It was, after all, a Friday, and as the centuries-old superstition dictates, sailors should never leave port on a Friday. There was something more than that, though; something intuitive that urged him to linger another day.

Happier times: Rhian and Andy fell in love while in Antarctica and decided to explore the world under sail.

Later, when he told Rhian of his decision, she was delighted, as the extra day would give them time to thoroughly secure everything on deck and get a bit more rest. They were, in fact, still a bit worn out after their rough 550-mile crossing from Puerto Montt, on the Chilean mainland — which was the first blue-water crossing either of them had ever made.

Typically, most sailors break into offshore voyaging gradually after years of instruction and practice in sheltered inshore waters. However, this feisty British couple is anything but typical. They met and fell in love while working in Antarctica. Andy, 36, is an ex-Royal Marine who often earns his pay suspended from industrial structures hundreds of feet in the air, when he's not mountaineering in places like Patagonia and Antarctica. Rhian, 35, holds a PhD in atmospheric chemistry, which led her to spend four seasons with the British Antarctic Survey.

After somehow getting the sailing bug, they bought the stout 37-ft sloop Zephyrus in Ushuaia — Argentina's southernmost city — and spent the better part of a year refitting her before setting out for New Zealand late last January.

During that fateful Friday night, while Andy slept soundly, Rhian's intuitive powers kicked in, as she sensed something odd. The heavy ferrocement hull seemed to be rocking with a peculiar motion. Uncommon gurgling noises coming from the head and sinks caused her to get up and shut off several through-hull fittings.

Then around 4 a.m. Andy woke up suddenly: "What the heck is that"? I thought. I heard the sound of water rushing by the hull, as if we were sailing — fast."

Outside, it was a pitch-black night. He shined a light around, but all he could see was water streaming past the hull. "It was as if we were doing 20+ knots."

Zephyrus was moored in the southeast corner of Cumberland Bay, lying in 75 feet of water on a huge mooring that had been set by the Chilean Armada (Navy). Having dived on it himself, Andy knew its construction — a 4-ton concrete slab augmented by four 50-lb fishing anchors secured to its corners — and he was confident that it was secure. At the head of the bay lay the waterside town of San Juan Bautista. There were no other cruising boats on the bay that night, only unoccupied fishing boats.

"Initially I had no idea what was going on," recalls Andy. "For the life of me I couldn't work out what was happening." Then he and Rhian heard a thunderous rumble ashore. "It sounded like thousands of tons of earth being poured out of a giant dump truck all at once," explains Andy. Both he and Rhian assumed it must have been a massive landslide.

But it was, of course, the roar of an immense wall of water crashing against the shoreline; a tsunami estimated to have been 15 feet high which traveled to the island at roughly 500 mph, generated by the now-famous 8.8 earthquake that had rocked the Chilean mainland less than an hour earlier. The epicenter was nearly due east of this tiny island and its three smaller neighbors within the Juan Fernandez archipelago.

It is darkly ironic that Andy had actually heard that exact crashing sound before, but in the confusion of that dark, eerie night, he didn't make the connection. Amazingly, he'd been in Thailand on December 26, 2004, when a catastrophic tsunami struck, but he was just far enough inland to avoid the fate of so many others. More than 8,000 Thais and vacationers perished. On Robinson Crusoe, as in Thailand, there had been no warning.

The character in Daniel Defoe's famous novel, after whom this normally tranquil island is named, was modeled after Scottish sailor Alexander Selkirk, who was marooned here from 1704 to 1708.

TSUNAMI SURVIVORS

"Shortly after the crash," Andy recalls, "we heard people screaming, calling out for their loved ones." Zephyrus lay about 50 yards from the nearest land, and perhaps 150 yards from the heart of the village.

As the churning water rushed out of the bay in the first of a series of powerful surges, it brought with it a chaotic jumble of debris: whole trees, splintered lumber, fishing gear, small boats and all sorts of household items.

"Suddenly, among trees and debris, a young lad appeared out of the darkness," Andy remembers. "I shouted to him in Spanish to swim to the boat. Moments later the surge slammed him into the side of the hull, and I was able to pull him aboard." He was a 14-year-old boy named Pablo who was shivering, bleeding from numerous cuts and scrapes, and covered in oil. Rhian tried to warm and console him as he screamed in terror, "Mama! Papa!" She took him below to put him in bed and instinctively started to put on a kettle of water but immediately changed her mind, as Zephyrus was surrounded by fumes of gas and oil that lay on the surface.

"A minute later another boy came through the water," Andy recalls. "'Swim! Swim!' I screamed." He was a strong 17-year-old, and was able to reach the hull, where Andy pulled him up out of the churning bay.

About this time Rhian asked, "Where is the Armada? Why is there no rescue service?" Unbeknownst to her and

"It was, of course, the roar of an immense wall of water crashing against the shoreline."

Andy, the entire naval station had been completely wiped out, along with about 60 homes, numerous businesses and government buildings, the sports center and the island's only school. On the VHF they heard no official communications, only random fishermen scrambling to find boats so they could search for survivors.

A while later, they could make out a huge Chilean Armada ship coming toward them in the darkness. "The Armada!" Rhian shouted with excited relief. But as it lunged closer on a collision course with Zephyrus, they realized that the vessel was unmanned. When the tsunami struck, the ship had broken loose from its mooring and was sent adrift with its enormous mooring float still attached. "Somehow the boys and I were able to fend it off with oars from our rowing dinghy," Andy explains.

More surges followed carrying all sorts of rubble — including whole houses. One of them collided with Zephyrus: "It scraped along the side of the boat ripping paint off and putting gouges all along one side of the hull," says Andy. As if that wasn't frightening enough, the wood-frame building somehow got hung up on the forestay where a second house soon piled up against it. "I looked at the forestay bending like a bow," says Andy, "then at our mooring lines thinking 'Any second now something's going to pop.' But amazingly they all held." The couple later calculated that the huge mooring had just gotten little Francisca safely aboard when a surge tore the mother and her son from the line. The father, Alex, let go too, not about to let his family drift away without him, and the three of them disappeared into the night. Naturally, little Francisca was horrified, as it seemed obvious that she would never see her family again. Rhian did her best to console and warm her below decks.

Adding to the surreal nature of that long night, Andy remembers that the roar of the ocean and the screams of desperate people ashore were punctuated regularly by the sound of propane bottles "capping off" as they broke loose from the floating houses that they had fueled. With gasoline, diesel and oil already glazing the sea surface it was a very unsettling sound.

About two long hours later, still before dawn, a fishing boat pulled up alongside Zephyrus. Its helmsman, who was completely naked and freezing cold, turned out to be young Pablo's uncle. Also aboard were Francisca's lost family members, who scampered aboard Zephyrus for a tearful reunion with their elated daughter. "Dear God, thank you," Rhian remembers thinking. She gave dry clothes to the helmsman, and as soon as he warmed up a bit, he took off with the two teenage boys to search for more survivors.

"Alex was a very practical, clear-thinking guy," Andy recalls. "He started to cut away all the shit around the boat in case we needed to go quickly, while I started laying out sails. We both figured we'd have fouled the prop within seconds, as there was so much fishing line all around." At some point they snagged a half-submerged Zodiac that was floating by and secured it, thinking it might come in handy later.

"Gradually, we started piecing together what had happened," Rhian wrote later. "This was no landslide. It was a wave, a huge wave. As dawn approached, we started to digest the damage. The whole town front had been wiped out. Gone." From her perspective it appeared that the tsunami had driven roughly 80 yards inshore, and surged at least sixty feet up the steep hill behind the town with its initial thrust.

Having made a number of new friends during their one-week stay at this normally tranquil island, both Rhian and Andy initially assumed they would stick around and see what they could do to help. But a half hour after sunrise the Armada called via VHF to relay a warning from the mainland that another wave was coming. The whole town was being evacuated and Zephyrus, they said, needed to leave the bay immediately.

Andy decided the best idea would be to put Alex and his family ashore in the next bay, away from the bulk of the floating debris. "We cut all the rubble away, started the engine and gunned it they were on had actually moved about 50 feet. They were convinced that the force of those houses must have done it.

The runaway buildings eventually broke free, but the drama was about to get even more intense. Andy explains, "There was another surge. A house was being washed out and we could hear screams from inside it." To their horror, the shell-shocked couple saw a father, mother and two small children looking out through an upstairs window." It turned out that the father was a Navy diver who'd only recently been teaching his kids how to dive. When the tsunami hit, dislodging the house from its foundation, 7-year-old Francisca was asleep on the lower floor, which quickly flooded. Her father commanded her to dive into the water as he'd taught her, and swim up the staircase to safety. Once she'd done that he helped her and her 5-year-old brother into wetsuits.

As the house rushed by, Rhian, Andy, and the two stranded teenage boys screamed to the family to jump in and swim. On the third try, the father finally grabbed a rescue line. Andy and Rhian out of the bay," says Andy. Amazingly, they got clear without fouling the prop. In the neighboring bay they motored in as close as they dared, and the traumatized family made it safely ashore in the wayward Zodiac.

The Armada had instructed Andy and Rhian to go 10 miles offshore, or into water that was 500 feet deep. By the time they reached that distance they'd seen three relief planes approaching the island and had heard that a Navy ship was en route. The wind angle was ideal for their next leg to Easter Island, a 1,600-mile crossing. But they both felt deeply conflicted. "I desperately wanted to go back. So did Andy," Rhian wrote later. "Our hearts said return; our heads said continue."

Fortunately, that second wave never materialized, but we imagine the rebuilding effort is still ongoing nevertheless. Sixteen of Crusoe's population of 600 lost their lives on that horrible night. Luckily, Andy and Rhian weren't among them.

RHIAN SALMON

Upon arrival, Andy rigged the quarantine flag. Little did he know, those calm bay waters would turn into a raging cauldron.

Of course, had they been willing to set sail on a Friday, they would have steered clear of the disaster entirely. But by yielding to that age-old superstition — and a curious gut feeling — they were able to save several young lives. And although those survivors and their rescuers may never meet again, we're certain they'll never forget each other or the ordeal they shared on that long, dark night.

Editor's note — We heard part of this amazing tale in February, but it wasn't until we caught up to Rhian and Andy in Tonga last month that we got their full report.

A footnote to this story holds a worthwhile lesson: A friend of Rhian living in Shanghai happened to read a tsunami report relayed from Hawaii — which Chilean authorities apparently ignored. He phoned Rhian's brother in New York, who immediately called her satphone. Unfortunately it was turned off. If it had been active, they would have had 20 minutes' warning and might have been able to alert authorities ashore.

Tsunami warnings were issued in 53 countries. Damage occurred as far away as Japan and New Zealand.

EYE ON THE BAY

Maximum fun on 'Maxine'.

'Freyja' feeling frisky.

The summer of 2010 was more of a non-event than usual for Bay Area sailors, so when last month brought perfect sailing conditions — sunny, warm(ish), and mellow breezes — everyone jumped at the chance to 'get out the boat'.

But it appears folks didn't forget basic safety in their rush to get out on the water. If you look carefully at the following photos, you'll notice a trend that we're happy to see — nearly all of the sailors pictured are wearing PFDs.

It appears all the public outreach over the last several years has been working — and good thing, too. At least three MOBs were saved by fellow boaters just last month thanks to their PFDs, but two others weren't so lucky. (Read about them in Sightings.)

Some sailors, such as famed French sailor Eric Tabarly, might gripe about feeling restricted when wearing a PFD. But we remind them of Tabarly's fate: while sailing at night with friends off Wales in June '98, the gaff on Pen Duick's lowered main knocked him overboard. His body was found a month later. We often wonder if, as he watched his boat sail away, Tabarly regretted his decision not to wear a PFD. It's certain that his wife and young daughter did.

So the next time you're out on the boat taking advantage of a little nice weather that happens our way, think about all the people in your life who would miss you if you didn't come back from that quick daysail. Then strap on, clip in, and enjoy the ride.

SEASON CHAMPIONS, PART I

Nothing says "summer's over" like the arrival of the rain and the end of daylight saving time. Both of those things have happened, which means it's also "game-over" for the summer sailing season.

But we're never ready to let it go, so every year at this time, we take a moment to highlight those who've put in the time and effort necessary to win their season series. This month we look at winners from the Yacht Racing Association of San Francisco Bay's (YRA) Handicap Divisions Association (HDA), Party Circuit (PC), and Offshore Yacht Racing Association (OYRA) as well as the SF Bay IRC Association. All but the latter are run under the auspices of YRA, which in addition to organizing all its own events, provides essentials for all the Bay's yacht clubs — like event scheduling, PHRF ratings, and the over 800 Coast Guard permits issued each year for racing events held on the Bay.

In only its fourth year of existence, the Party Circuit continues to be the YRA's top draw. Encompassing three weekend events, the Circuit starts with the Great Vallejo Race in May, moves on to the Encinal YC's Second-Half Opener at the end of July, and finishes at the Corinthian YC's Season Closer in late September. Featuring a range of racing types — Vallejo, a point-to-point, the Second-Half Opener, roughly long windward-leeward races/Bay tours; and the Season Closer, a combination of the latter plus a pursuit race — the Circuit has won racers over.

"We like the Party Circuit for the long downwind races (great spinnaker work) and the Saturday night parties after a long day of racing," said Party Circuit SF 180 winner Mike Kastrop. "We get a chance to mingle with the other fleets. We also enjoy chatting with our friendly rivals in the SF180 fleet! The yacht clubs that host the Party Circuit do a fantastic job of welcoming a big crowd."

While its numbers have receded in recent years, and — like any other race that goes past Pt. Bonita — its events are now subject to the more stringent EPIRB and reporting requirements instituted by the Coast Guard this year, the OYRA continues to get good turnouts. The season standings don't reflect the number of single-race participants (always up in a Pacific Cup year), but they do show that perhaps most importantly, ocean racing keeps getting new converts every year. One of those was PHRO 3 winner Aaron Kennedy.

"To be honest, I think as a skipper I was getting a little burned-out with the usual buoy racing: upwind/downwind, spinnaker up/spinnaker down, the same old marks over and over again," Kennedy said. "I really enjoyed the challenge of something new and different. Racing in the OYRA also helps prepare us for some longer ventures hopefully in the near future."

Under pressure from an ever-expanding schedule of yacht club events and the same down economy that has people working more hours for less money — or not working at all, as the case may unfortunately be — the HDA has seen a drop in entries over the last few years. The good news is that the HDA had some of the most consistent participation among its various divisions. Still, its adherents are steadfast in their support, appreciating the chance to race around the buoys in these tightly-banded divisions.

Although the St. Francis YC's Rolex Big Boat Series has been using it as its handicap rule now for a few years, IRC seems to be having a hard time making inroads into Northern California, with steadily declining participation for every regatta except for the RBBS, which keeps going from strength to strength. The large rating spread in the roughly 10-boat fleet has meant a challenge for the smaller/slower boats and a Pac Cup year meant that many of the likely bigger/faster boat candidates were either preparing to sail, or sailing, to Hawaii during the meat of the season. All it will take is a few more boats before the divisions can be split and a smaller rating band will come into play.

As much as we'd like to, we simply don't have the space to get to every single division winner. So as difficult a decision as it was, we decided that given the numbers of boats involved in each series, the Party Circuit would get four write-ups while HDA and OYRA would get two apiece and IRC one. We then chose which divisions to profile based on one factor, imperfect as it may be: the number of individual races sailed by the division's entrants throughout the season. Based on that metric we chose the divisions you see in the following pages.

If you need more information on any of these series, the best place to look is on the YRA's useful website at www.yra.org, and for IRC, www.sfbay-irc.org. Don't forget that after many years in Fort Mason, the YRA office is now located in Alameda. The (415) 771-9500

Split Water — Beneteau 10R

Dave Britt Richmond YC

By weekday, David Britt is a professor in the chemistry department at UC Davis who researches using sunlight to split water molecules for electricity — the origin of the boat's name. Due to its proximity to Davis, Britt started sailing ten years ago at Vallejo YC, where he still sails Wednesday nights. Toward the end of that time, he picked up a J/24 to learn, "all the stuff you don't learn when you're crewing on someone else's boat."

From there it was onto the Beneteau 10R. In his first full season, he crushed his division by a ten-point margin with a core crew that combined Chris Corlett, Corlett's son Jesse, Greg Paxton, and three of Britt's current and former PhD students: Val Lulevich, Greg McAlpine and Trevor Gurley.

"Chris has been involved heavily, which made a big difference," Britt said. "I bought the boat from Passage Yachts and he's sailed with me quite a bit. It's been a great opportunity to learn from him and the guys he's been sailing with for a long time."

The younger Corlett, a rigger at Hansen Rigging in Alameda, worked on improvements in the boat's rigging while the elder supervised the sail inventory.

"Four kites is all we need," Britt said. "We added a bobstay to the bowsprit so we could carry a code zero. On the Half Moon Bay Race, we were able to carry it immediately while everyone else was working farther out so they could get their conventional kites up. We sailed by everyone."

Ay Caliente! — Beneteau 36.7

Aaron Kennedy Richmond YC

Aaron Kennedy has been racing his Beneteau 36.7 Ay Caliente! for what's been a pretty successful four years.

"We've been the bridesmaid several times, so this season is a real treat for us," he said.

This Richmond-based sailor — a partner in a financial planning firm — took his division in only his first full season doing the ocean races.

"We did a few single races last season like the Spinnaker Cup, Farallones and Lightship which whetted our appetite for the ocean series," he said. "We put a lot of training into MOBs, boating safety — 4 out of the 6 crew have Safety at Sea certificates — and Don Krafft, our main trimmer, has circumnavigated. Everyone pitched in with boat prep, meals, weather routing and navigation. It was a true team effort!"

Kennedy hasn't wasted any time since taking up the sport later in life (he grew up in a "water-skiing family" on the Delta). Since late '06 the boat has sailed well over 250 races! A core crew of regulars including Adam Watts, Jack Pflueger, and Krafft have sailed on the boat for several seasons and were joined this year by newcomers Tracy O'Neil and Andrew Zaeglein.

"I could write a book about how much they contribute," Kennedy said. "It's like a family aboard Ay Caliente!. At the end of the day, we have a great time together. We've adapted the Richmond YC club's motto to read, "this boat was built for fun!"

Jeannette — Frers 40 1T

Henry King Berkeley YC

Henry King's Frers One Tonner Jeanette is one of a dying breed, the IOR battlewagon of days past.

But she's still got the wheels, as proven by her one-point win in PC G over perennial rival John Clauser's Bodacious, which is also a fast classic.

"My first brush with things nautical started when I was given a copy of National Geographic's Men, Ships and the Sea, which got me charged up enough to attempt a Thistle build in my parent's garage," King said. "I eventually learned to sail in the family El Toro on Lake Merritt and apart from some dinghy sailing in Kansas have been sailing out of Berkeley since the late '70s."

"Winning the division was definitely not the goal at the outset," he said. "Sailing the Party Circuit was a way for me to crawl out of the dark psychic funk of Big Boat Series disasters, after which I essentially stopped racing. So, I don't have a team now, nor a 'program.' This year I decided to relax and just enjoy sailing this dated beauty with whichever of my many dear sailing friends were available."

Those dear friends included helmsmen Mark Witty and Aaron Lee, main trimmer Richard Reitmeyer, pitman Tom Nemeth, trimmer Stan Morris. King wears the hats of runners, trim and tactics.

"The Party Circuit schedule is remarkably low pressure," King said. "Especially for one who's beginning to think a Hylas 47 is not so ridiculous after all."

Always Friday — Antrim 27

John Liebenberg Richmond YC

John Liebenberg first started racing in the now-defunct Midget Ocean Racing Association back in '65 on an Islander Bahama, a boat that's about as different as you can get from the Antrim 27 he regularly wins with these days.

With Always Friday, Liebenberg always seems to be out in front of the pack, whether it be in the Party Circuit, or the OYRA, where he also claimed top honors in PHRO 1, scoring five bullets in the 12-race series — in the one way to Half Moon Bay, Lightship 2, Southern Cross and Junior Waterhouse races — and finishing four points ahead of the competition despite using his two throwouts on DNCs at the beginning of the season.

In the Party Circuit, Liebenberg finished six points ahead of runner-up Daniel Thielman's Kuai, while scoring three bullets — one on the way to Vallejo, and two during the Season Closer — in the six-race series.

He did it in what was probably the most competitive division this year. Complementing the bullets was a second and a third. Not too shabby in the one-throwout series.

The retired engineer has been sailing AF for around 11 or 12 years now after stepping up from an Express 27 named Friday.

Liebenberg's winning ways have rubbed off on his son David, who along with Santa Cruz's Max Fraser, has won the 29er North Americans multiple times and is always at the top of that class.

Charles Brochard Richmond YC

Winning Party Circuit J was no walk in the park for Charles Brochard and his crew aboard the Richmond-based Olson 34 Baleineau. Going into the final weekend of the season, they were tied on points with eventual runner-up Peter Cook's Ultimate 24 For Pete's Sake.

"We knew we were in for a long battle after the Vallejo Race weekend when they took two bullets," Brochard said. "We didn't realize until the morning of the last race day that we were tied and the tie breaker was based on who beat whom in the final race. That made for some interesting tactical decisions trying to catch them in the pursuit race."

Brochard, a biotech professional who started racing on a Victory 21 while still in high school, before graduating to a Santana 22, an Olson 25 and now the Olson 34, closed out the final weekend with a pair of bullets to take the season title with the help of a core crew.

Baleineau is staffed by a group of regulars that include Brochard's wife Candace, "who fuels us with Scharffenberger brownies and keeps things from getting mixed up during spinnaker sets," his son Colin, grinder Ralph Abadir and spinnaker trimmer Paul Heilman, plus foredeck Dave Adolphs. Main trim and tactics are taken care of by Karl Matzke or Jens Jensen.

"Handicap racing is all about keeping the boat moving to its potential as much as possible," Brochard said. "The important thing is to have fun doing it."

PC SF 180

Goose — Catalina 30

Mike Kastrop South Beach YC

For Mike Kastrop, winning PC SF 180 on a countback didn't come without some extremes.

"We got stuck in the mud leaving the Napa River Channel on Race 2 of the Vallejo Season Opener, and had to abandon the race," he said. "On the other hand, we totally aced the first day of the Corinthian Season Closer, correcting out ahead of every other boat participating in all of the divisions!"

Kastrop — a Peninsula-based architect who notably designed the building that houses the South Beach YC — said he started racing in Southern California at the age of 12, and has been racing ever since on everything from dinghies to 60-footers in everything from club races to the Rolex Big Boat Series to coastal races. His wife Lorianna "learned to sail when we got married in '84 so that she wouldn't be a 'sailing widow' and has been racing ever since. Their kids Jack and Clint grew up sailing on Goose and have sailed at the national level.

In addition to Lorianna, Jack and Clint, Goose's crew includes Mark Hensley, Ramelle Ruff, Alex Kononoff, Tom Hawkins and Jeff Bruton.

For the Kastrops, who Mike said are "hyper-competitive in a friendly and fun-loving way," sailing plays a bigger role than just competition.

"We bought Goose in '98 when Jack was 8 and Clint was 5," Kastrop said. "It's our family bonding activity and our favorite vacation is bareboat chartering."

SEASON CHAMPIONS, PART I

HDA G Mintaka 4 — Farr 38 mod.

Gerry Brown
Berkeley YC

To say that Gerry Brown has a long history in the Bay's racing scene is an understatement. The former YRA chairman and HDA president has been racing here constantly for the last 46 years.

In that time, the retired computer programmer has amassed an enviable record including six Pearson Triton fleet championships, eight Newport 30 fleet titles and now a ninth HDA season win.

Armed with only his modified Farr 38 Mintaka 4 and a core crew that's been sailing with him for years, Brown got down to business once again this year.

That consistency isn't limited only to Mintaka 4's boat speed; a look at Brown's core crew and the number of years they've sailed with him tell a more complete story: Tom Ranweiler (29 years), Bruno Carnovale (28 years), Hank Melin (27 years), Joe 'Rocky' Rockmore (22 years), Dave DiFalco (9 years) and Bob Gardner (7 years).

This year Brown also had some fill-ins in Gari Ruggles and Donald Inouye. After so many years of sailing together, you'd wonder if these guys ever get tired of seeing each other. Not so, according to Brown.

"Each race is more like a family reunion," he said.

At 75-years-young, Brown still dives Mintaka's bottom himself before every race, and he never stops looking for an edge; one change he made this year:

"We took a three-second hit and bought a new 155% this year. It greatly improved our performance in light air."

2) Yellowfin, J/105, Kurt Olsen; 3) Two Scoops, Olson 34, Chris Longaker/Greg Wright. (6 boats)

HDA K Can O' Whoopass — Cal 20

Richard vonEhrenkrook
San Francisco YC

A Cal 20 with a trapeze? That's what Richard vonEhrenkrook's weapon of choice was to win HDA K. His Can O' Whoopass is a familiar sight on the Bay, with wireman Paul Sutcheck, an old friend whom vonEhrenkrook introduced to sailing two years ago, handling the front of the boat.

"After a kite set, while I have the helm and all the strings, there is no one I have ever sailed with who can put the cockpit in order and crack two beers faster," vonEhrenkrook said. "I wouldn't go racing without him; he's a perfectionist."

The San Francisco YC member got into Cal 20s in the early '80s, racing with Charles Gay and Ross Craig. He grew up in Marina Del Rey where he taught sailing for the City of Los Angeles, and "held the world speed record for Hobie 16s for about 6 months in 1973."

"The Can is my third Cal 20," vonEhrenkrook said. I don't know why, other than that they're really cost-effective."

HDA K wasn't the only series vonEhrenkrook and Sutcheck won; they also took the Party Circuit SF198+ title. In addition, the pair were first overall on Saturday in this year's Vallejo Race, second monohull overall in the SSS Corinthian Race and first overall in the OYRA Drake's Bay 2. They took the '10 Berkeley YC Midwinters Champion of Champions for the second year in a row, and helped bring home the Aotea Cup — the Corinthian YC Midwinter Club Challenge trophy along with Glenn Isaacson's Q, and Hank Easom's Yucca.

2) Gig, Humboldt 30 IB, Gilbert Sloan; 3) Ahi, Santana 35, Andy Newell. (6 boats)

IRC Soozal — King 40

Dan Woolery
Richmond YC

Dan Woolery and his Pt. Richmond-based King 40 Soozal dominated the Bay's IRC scene, as they have in the two years since the boat was launched.

Woolery has recruited a who's-who of sailing talent from the region with the help of project manager Scott Easom. With the help of guys like tactician Robbie Haines, Gary Sadamori, Greg Felton, Chris Lewis, Dave Gruver, Matt Siddens, Andy McCormick, Pete McCormick and Hogan Beatie, Soozal won every single IRC regatta this year. That run also included the West Coast IRC Championship at the Rolex Big Boat Series.

Although attendance at IRC regattas was down this year, with three of the events having only about six boats show up, the competition was much closer. Unlike the previous year, there were other boats winning races in '10. That was due in part to a rating hit taken by the boat when the rule's secretive VPP was changed to discourage the use of the push-button electric winch systems that Easom pioneered in this size range.

Now, Woolery — owner of a fresh foods company that makes "wet" salads for retail — is planning on putting the dual-purpose nature of the rule to the test with Soozal — named for his wife Susan's nickname.

"We got a slip down in Dana Point, so the boat is going to get a coat of bottom paint, the roller furling gear will go on and we're going to do some cruising in Southern California over the winter," Woolery said.

Prov. 2) TNT, Tripp 43, Brad Copper; 3) Swiftsure, Schumacher 54, Sy Kleinman. (12 boats)

Latitude 38 MAD LIB

Remember how, when you were young (we barely do!), you and your friends wasted countless hours playing those silly word games Mad Libs? We thought it would be fun to come up with a sailing version of the game for you and your crew to waste time with while you're waiting out a Midwinter race postponement, or while you're anchored in Clipper Cove for the weekend, or just sitting in your living room dreading the next episode of Dancing With The Stars. If you've never played before, the rules are simple: Have one person (you need at least two to play) ask the other player(s) to supply words to fill in the blanks. Don't give them any hints about the story! Write their answers into the appropriate blank, then read the completed story to them. The results can be hilarious!

MAX EBB

"You want me? To do foredeck? Surely you're joking."

But she wasn't joking, and she really did want me to do foredeck for a day.

The boat was a little smaller than my own, and therefore not particularly intimidating, load-wise. But it'd been years since I'd been in front of the mast on any race boat, including my own, and on bigger boats I'm seldom allowed forward of the traveler after the race starts.

"There's nothing to it, Max," Lee Helm tried to assure me. "And you're the most experienced foredeck crew on board."

"But I'm the wrong body type to be on the bow of a boat this size. Can't one of your college friends do point?"

"They're all newbies," she explained.

How had I gotten myself into this mess? Lee Helm, a grad student and a great crew, seems to be getting less and less available for crewing on my boat. In the summer, she'd rather be windsurfing, and in the winter she's usually more attracted to lighter and faster boats than my aging racer-cruiser.

But for this race the owner was out of town and left Lee with the con. It was a trade: I crew for her this weekend, she crews for me next weekend. And I had agreed to this without ever reading the fine print: It was a boat full of beginners, mostly Lee's college student friends, and I was charged with doing foredeck and giving sailing lessons while Lee was to win the race for the absentee skipper. If I could keep things untangled, that is.

"Okay," I sighed, resigned to my fate. "Where do they keep the spinnaker sheets? And do we need to re-pack any of the chutes?"

"Strings're already run," Lee advised. "And the chute's in the launcher. We're like on my boat? I think I still understand how that works."

"That's so last-century," Lee answered. But she was distracted by some questions about rigging the jib sheets before she could explain, leaving me to explore the front half of the boat on my own.

This foredeck did have some unusual features. First and foremost was the great big hole in the forward hatch, which I discovered the hard way — by falling in. It was disguised by what I first thought was a spray dodger of some sort over a normal hatch lid, but there was no solid surface underneath it and I sank in up to the knee.

"Mind the hole in the foredeck," shouted Lee, just a little too late.

Hiding this hole was a large dry-bag, one of those waterproof gear bags with the roll-up seal at the top. The bottom end of the dry-bag was firmly attached to the foredeck hatch via a ring of bolts and a circular gasket, squeezing the fabric between the hatch cover and the gasket. A hole had been cut in the bottom of the bag to match the hole in the hatch cover.

This essentially created a cloth stove-pipe on the bow, with a roll-up top. Three lines, which I determined were the two spinnaker sheets and the halyard, led out of the bag. The whole thing was folded flat on the deck, held down by shock cords to the toe rails on either side. It was not thing was already hooked up.

Meanwhile the boat had started to move, without anyone's starting the engine. Lee and her crew had cast off and were sailing out of the harbor when I finished inspecting how things were rigged down below.

"Looks like we're ready to set," I informed Lee. "Just give me some warning when you want the pole, if you think you can handle my weight on the bow when we're going upwind."

"We'll keep it simple and, like, set the pole after the spinnaker," Lee explained. "That way we don't have to worry about which side the strings are rigged, and no weight's on the bow till after we round."

"A floater set, with first-time sheet trimmers? Are you sure about this?"

"It's the easy way," she insisted. "And I have a secret exercise to bring the trimmers up to speed."

"Which jib do you want on deck?" I asked.

"Tee up the 150," she decided. "But be really careful not to put the jib between the spinnaker sheets and the spinnaker halyard. All three strings have to come out of the same hole in the rigging."

"Of course," I said as I found the big jib and asked another crew to help me snake the long sausage bag out of the cabin and up to the foredeck.

a bad solution to an old problem: How to let sheets and halyards go through the deck while keeping the water out.

I moved aft, entered the cabin and found my way forward to the underside of this contraption. The spinnaker sat in a plastic laundry bag tied in place on the V-berth, right below the hole in the hatch. Every-

— DOWN THE HATCH

We arrived at the starting area comfortably early, and Lee began her trimming drill.

"Ready for a set!" she ordered while we were still beating upwind, on port tack. I unclipped the elastic tie-downs that kept the dry-bag top rolled up. "Pole on port side?" I asked.

"No pole, this is floater practice."

There wasn't anything to hook up. Lee turned the boat down to a very deep run, I hauled in on the halyard, and the sail fed out of the launcher. After a little coaching, and a little 'human spinnaker pole' on my part to help hold the aftergyuy out from the centerline, the trimmers had the sail flying nicely.

After just a few seconds Lee called for the spinnaker to come back down.

"Do we gather under the boom and then re-pack?" I asked. "I don't see how we can get it to go back into that bag from above, unless two of us hold it open."

"Turn it inside out," she said. "Just push the whole bag inside the boat."

I did as instructed, and that's when I noticed that there was still a line running through the bag and up to the clew of the sail. It looked suspiciously like the tail of the spinnaker halyard. We now had a nice big hole in the foredeck with the stove pipe extending under the deck instead of above it, and a retrieval line running from the spinnaker, through the hole, and out to the companionway. Lee had one of the new crew stand in the companionway, ready to pull the sail back into the boat by the halyard tail, while I let the halyard down just slowly enough to keep it dry.

It worked fine, except that the crew kept pulling on the retrieval line, then on the sail, and by the time we told him to stop, both sheets had been sucked out of their turning blocks, up to the bow and down the hole.

"Next time, stop as soon as the sail is inside the boat," I advised.

We sailed upwind while I re-rigged the sheets, then did the same maneuvers. This time we reset almost immediately after the douse. And after about 10 of these set-douse-set cycles, including heading up to a beat and back down to a run, the crew was getting pretty good at it.

"One more exercise," said Lee after positioning the boat well upwind of our starting area. "This time we'll pull the jib down after the spinnaker's up." She assigned a featherweight woman from her math class to actually pull the jib down at the pulpit, with me coaching her from aft on how to pull it down by the luff tape, how to use the elastic tiedowns to hold it on deck, and how to re-load the tape into the pre-feeder and luff groove.

That part was easy, but then, with the spinnaker free-flying just fine, Lee asked me to let the halyard out 10 feet. Then another 10 feet. Then finally another 10 feet, so the head of the sail was flying a full 30 feet away from the masthead.

"Don't try this at home unless the boat is in its berth or anchored by the stern," she advised. "But it's, like, the only way to really teach crew how to control a free-flying chute. It works a lot like a stunt kite, only with three strings."

I had to do some emergency halyard jumps and Lee had to make some emergency sharp turns to keep from running over the sail when they got it wrong. But after half an hour of this game they were trimming like experts. They could practically write their names in the sky by moving the sail up, down or sideways on command.

"There's no other way to learn this," Lee remarked.

"Reminds me of that quote about picking a cat up by the tail," I said.

Lee eventually decided that the crew had achieved "cognitive purchase" and, with the spinnaker safely back in the launching tube, she declared practice officially over.

"But Lee," I protested. "We never did any jibes!"

"Heck, jibes are easy compared to leeward marks," she explained. "But everyone totally wants to practice jibes instead of leeward marks because you have to re-pack after each leeward mark drill. Unless you have a rig like this. I mean, if the crew is good at free-flying, they won't have any trouble with the jibe."

"Will you want me to do the pole?" I asked.

"One of the newbies can handle it with a little coaching.

If the trimmers put the spinnaker in the right place, the pole is really easy."

We beat back to the starting line for what proved to be a fairly successful and pleasantly uneventful race.

And if I say so myself, I did a great job as foredeck. Mainly because I never once had to leave the cockpit.

BAJA HA-HA PROFILES, PT III —

As you read this, the largest Baja Ha-Ha rally fleet ever is headed south in pursuit of sunny skies, sweet sailing and relaxation, having set sail from San Diego on October 25.

The folks you'll meet in this final installment of fleet profiles were the last to sign up. Some, in fact, didn't register until the very last minute. Why? We suspect at least a few of them were trying to complete their pre-departure 'to do' list before committing to the cruise, not realizing that a cruiser's to do list never ends. At some point you simply have to say, "Good enough," throw off the docklines and head out.

As we've been told time and again, one of the best things about joining the Ha-Ha is that it gives entrants a concrete deadline when they are finally forced to end their procrastinating — which otherwise might have continued for years.

If you're interested in following the fleet's progress, we hope to post reports and photos several times during the 750-mile rally on 'Lectronic Latitude' (at www.latitude38.com). And we'll follow up with a full-blown recap in our December issue. Here then, are the stragglers of the Ha-Ha Class of 2010.

BAJA HA-HA PROFILES, PT III

Ha-Ha is the start of a long-term cruise — "Hopefully 10 or more years," — in which they'll transit the Panama Canal, head to the East Coast, then "wherever the wind blows us."

Summer — Hallberg-Rassy 43
Ed Bulchis, Seattle, WA

Noteworthy: Ed first heard about the Ha-Ha at a Seattle Yacht Club dinner.

Gypsy — Young Son 35 cutter
Neil Coleman & Lisa Goldman
Marina del Rey

Noteworthy: Neil and Lisa used to keep Gypsy in Florida. "Our fourth hurricane, Francis, is the one that chased us back to California."

Perfect Wave — Jeanneau 57
The Wells Family, Seattle, WA

Noteworthy: The rally is the first leg of a planned circumnavigation for Eric and Dawn, and their kids Whitney and Tommy.

Formula Won — Beneteau 473
Jim Schmid, San Diego

Noteworthy: 2009 vet Jim and his son

Charles say they're doing this year's Ha-Ha to raise money for charity.

Nancy Rae — Catalina 36
Les Heinrich, Kent, WA

Noteworthy: Les will be sailing with an all-female crew!

Moontide — Lagoon 470 cat
Bill Lilly, Newport, RI

Noteworthy: Bill and his all-female crew — "It sucks to be me!" he jokes — will host the Bahia Santa Maria 'Singles Party' for the fifth time. "You just can't have too much fun in life!"

Meredith — Norseman 535
Richard Owens, Sausalito

Quote: "After five years of hassling with the Marin Superior Court, my five-year-old son Rocky is with us and learning the wonderment of the sea."

Tiger — Farr 44
Pat Bloomer, San Diego

Noteworthy: Aussie Pat plans to sail Tiger, which he bought in San Diego six months ago, back home to Oz.

Easy to Grin — Piver 31AA tri
Dave Panton, San Diego

Noteworthy: Dave says he and his crew of twenty-somethings are probably the greenest crew in the rally.

Tinuviel — True North 34
Barry Foster & Kathy Crabtree Benicia

Noteworthy: Barry and Kathy say they expect "enlightenment" from the Ha-Ha.

Kailani — Catalina 400 MkII
Cary & Michele Hansen
Nawiliwili, HI

Noteworthy: The Hansens retired to California from Kauai (!) to sail to Mexico. "Roger and Di Frizzelle on Di's Dream [entry #7] said 'Let's go, it'll be a blast!'," they say.

And that's the last of them. If reading about all these lucky folks makes you envious, well... there's always next year. The dates for Ha-Ha XVIII will be October 23 to November 5, 2011.

A RECORD- BREAKING FLEET

As you may have heard, this year's 196-boat fleet is the largest in the event's 17-year history! Goes to show, there's no shortage of sailors eager to get out cruising, despite the sluggish economy.

If you're not familiar with the event, let us clarify that the Ha-Ha is a 750-mile cruisers' rally from San Diego to Cabo San Lucas, with stops along the way at Turtle Bay and Bahia Santa Maria.

You'll find frequent updates on this year's rally, in addition to all sorts of other hot sailing topics at Latitude's three-times-weekly news portal, 'Lectronic Latitude' (found at www.latitude38.com.)

If you missed this year's rally, no worries. There's always next year. Dates for Ha-Ha XVIII are October 23 through November 5, 2011. Online sign-ups will begin May 2 at www.baja-haha.com.

HITCHIN' A RIDE SOUTH

Our Mexico-Only Crew List Party and Baja Ha-Ha Reunion in September at the Encinal YC served its purpose by linking dozens of potential crew members with skippers in need of additional watch-standers.

If you missed that shindig and would really like to spend some quality time south of the border, you might still be able to find a ride by visiting our online Crew List at www.latitude38.com. It's constantly updated.

IS THE PACIFIC PUDDLE JUMP IN YOUR FUTURE?

For many cruisers, the next logical step after cruising Mexican waters for a season or more is to hang a right and head west into the Pacific.

We call that annual springtime migration the Pacific Puddle Jump, and report on it heavily in the pages of Latitude 38. Making that 3,000-mile passage is one of the most thrilling accomplishments in the realm of sailing. Learn more online at www.pacificpuddlejump.com.

THE RACING

For being a "shoulder season" month, October sure was a doozy when it came to the racing calendar. First up we look at the Moore 24 Nationals, the sailing portion of the Leukemia Cup, Belvedere Cup, Jessica Cup, Wylie Wabbit Nationals and Albert T. Simpson Regatta. Then, it's on to the Paige/Logan Regatta, the Vanguard 15 Fleet 53 Champs, the Vallejo 1-2, the Women Skippers Regatta, BIG Team Regatta, Osprey Cup, and Latitude 38 Beer Can Challenge. Have fun and remember 'tis the season for Midwinters!

Moore 24 Nationals

The Moore 24s returned to their ancestral homeland October 1-3 for their Nationals. So did Santa Cruz native Morgan Larson. Sailing for the Hood River YC, Larson brought his cherry Bruzer out for the regatta and went home with the regatta title after a tight battle with Scott Easom's Eight Ball that saw the two swap places multiple times throughout the eight-race, one-throwout series.

But it was the final swap that sealed the deal for Larson as his purple-hulled Sport Cabin won the final race and Easom was forced to throw-out his 14th-place and keep a tenth from race one. That gave Bruzer 19 points to Eight Ball's 21.

Class newcomer Philippe Kahn had a remarkably good finish in Pegasus-MotionX, rounding out the top-three, while former multiple national champion David Hodges and Scott Walecka on Adios were just four points back. After a 19-point spread, John Kernot's Banditos ended up in fifth, cementing his win in the '10 Roadmaster series which finished up October 30-31 at the Great Pumpkin Regatta. The rest of the top-ten was replete with talent and it showed, with sixth through eighth place all tied at 52 points each.

Belvedere Cup

With match racing's popularity growing by leaps and bounds in the U.S. we're seeing more and more local events springing up on the Bay. One of those, the San Francisco YC's Belvedere Cup is relatively young in its current guise, but with full on-the-water umpiring for the owner-driven J/105s, it's proven to be a draw for some of the top programs on the Bay.

Sailed on the Circle October 9-10, the event brought out six teams for a double round robin that constituted the championship. After 10 races, defending champion John Horsch's Business Time wound up the top finisher, taking only one loss, to eventual runner-up Bruce Stone's Arbitrage. The latter finished with 6.5 points after winning the countback for third place over Peter Stoneberg's Yikes!!.

Leukemia Cup Regatta

The Bay's fifth-annual Leukemia Cup Regatta brought 83 boats out to the San Francisco YC October 3 as part of the larger weekend-long event that raised close to $690,000 dollars for research into blood cancers. Treated to true Chamber of Commerce conditions, the fleet sailed a random-leg Bay tour that took the big boats from the Knox starting area on a 12-mile

Jessica Cup

St. Francis YC hosted its Jessica Cup, the "other Master Mariners event" on October 16-17, and although the gaffers were notably absent, 12 of the Bay's most active woodies showed up for the event.

Hank Easom's venerable 8 Meter Yucca went home with the Jessica Cup after winning all three races in the Marconi division. Runner-up Robert Rogers' Sunda took home the top honors for Marconi under 40-ft and the Rascal Cup, while David James Leda won the three-boat Lapworth 36 division, and Don Taylor's VIP was the top Farallon Clipper.

Wylie Wabbit Nationals

A herd of Wylie Wabbits took to the Cityfront October 15-17 for their National Championships, hosted by St. Francis YC. After a scrappy seven-race, one-throwout series, Tim Russell's Weckless finished two points clear of Bill Erkelens' Jack to take the class' second-largest nationals ever.

The 15-boat fleet enjoyed what Russell described as perfect conditions over the three-day event.

"It was ideal for the Wabbit as it wasn't at all a long grind upwind, and downwind it was windy enough to catch waves and make gains if you could surf or catch a puff," he said.

Russell and his crew, wireman John Claude and middle guy Scott Parker, finished with twelve points after throwing out a fourth in the last race of the day on Saturday. The next-closest boat behind Erkelens was Erik Menzel's Bad Hare Day, nine-points farther back.

Russell said that just about every team spent the days preceding the regatta

Former multiple national champion David Hodges and Scott Walecka's 'Adios' gets on the wrong side of the true wind direction during the Moore 24 Nationals in Santa Cruz; they finished fourth.

Clockwise from top-left — George Szabo and Phil Toth won the Calvin Paige Trophy with straight bullets, Szabo didn't get that US Sailing Team AlphaGraphics rash guard out of a yacht club lost-and-found; the Wylie Wabbits sailed a tight series for their nationals on the Cityfront; Wabbit tamers; believe it or not, the name of the boat on port is 'Stark Terror'. . . you couldn't make this stuff up; Mike O'Callaghan's 'Corsair', Tom Pier's 'Robin', and Tamara Sokolov's 'Viking' were fodder for Hank Easom's 'Yucca' at the Jessica Cup; St. Francis YC Commodore David Sneary presents Easom with the Jessica Cup; Sergey Lubarsky's 'Libra' has some spinnaker issues at the Albert T. working on their boats, that all the boats were weighed for the event, many had new sails, and that as a whole, everyone was well-prepared. But all that preparation didn't keep the fleet breakdown-free. In Saturday's first race, Aaron Sturm's Wild Bunch II, which had started off the regatta with a 6-2, dropped its rig. In the last race of the day, Russell's rudder, which had been acting funny, started shifting around its post.

"We went around the first weather mark and set," Russell said. "All of a sudden I felt it break. There was about 12 inches of slop. We discussed dropping out because we had a throwout, but we decided to keep racing until we finished or crashed."

Russell said that Erkelens — sailing with wife Melinda in the middle and Rodney Daniel on the wire — was leading the race, but wiped out on the run and filled his boat with water before ultimately recovering to take sixth.

That night they went over to Richmond YC's Wabbit hutch and borrowed Stan Morris' rudder, while Sturm ended up borrowing Morris' rig. The Weckless crew was forced to make some changes to the rudder to get it to fit and made the first race on Sunday with just minutes to spare. Morris' boat must have some good juju because Sturm won the first race on Sunday with Weckless coming in second.

"I joked to Stan that his boat took both first and second on Sunday," Russell said.

In an event where five boats took bullets, there was no room for error, and according to Erkelens, the Jack crew started with a bit of a handicap.

"We were first at the top mark almost every race but were 70 pounds heavy on crew weight, so we were passed most runs," Erkelens said. "With the ebb tide, the runs were painfully long. Tim sailed well, and we did not. Next year Melinda will drive again and we will crush him!"

"It always felt like we were digging our way out of a hole after the starts," Russell said. "Tactically we were really good, but it felt like we were a boxer that was taking lots of punches and getting up and coming back for more."

Albert T. Simpson Regatta

St. Francis YC's Albert T. Simpson Regatta brought out the IODs, Express 27s, and Etchells, October 16-17 for six races on the Cityfront.

THE RACING

James Hennefer's La Paloma walked away with the seven-boat IOD division, while John Rivlin's Peaches was tops in the eight-boat Express 27 division after tying on points with Ray Lotto's El Raton.

The Etchells were sailing for more than just the regatta title. St. Francis YC member Bruce Stone, who competes in the J/105 class on both coasts, won the Manhasset Bay Challenge Cup by virtue of his win in the American YC's Fall Series last year. The 108-year-old challenge trophy has made infrequent trips to the West Coast during its history. The trophy is mandated to be sailed in one type of boat for a maximum of three years, and the J/105 had reached its 'term limit' this year, so Stone was forced to jump in an Etchells to defend. Seven boats showed up and, while Stone posted a very credible third in this competitive class, it was Bill Melbostad, Bryan Moore and Steve Fentress aboard JR who absconded with the 3-ft tall trophy to San Francisco YC. Unfortunately, the trio won't be able to defend their title at home, as the Cup's Declaration of Trust stipulates that every decennial year of the club's founding — 1891 — it must be contested at the Manhasset Bay YC.

requent trips to the West Coast during its history. The trophy is mandated to be sailed in one type of boat for a maximum of three years, and the J/105 had reached its 'term limit' this year, so Stone was forced to jump in an Etchells to defend. Seven boats showed up and, while Stone posted a very credible third in this competitive class, it was Bill Melbostad, Bryan Moore and Steve Fentress aboard JR who absconded with the 3-ft tall trophy to San Francisco YC. Unfortunately, the trio won't be able to defend their title at home, as the Cup's Declaration of Trust stipulates that every decennial year of the club's founding — 1891 — it must be contested at the Manhasset Bay YC.

Paige/Logan Regatta

Nine Mercuries and five Stars showed up for the Logan/Paige Regatta at St. Francis YC October 16-17. Randy Smith and John Verdoia on Fast Break won the nine-boat Mercury division and the Joe Logan Trophy finishing two-points clear of runner-up Doug Baird after five races.

US Sailing Team AlphaGraphics member and former Star world champion George Szabo sailing with Phil Toth took the five-boat Star division and the Calvin Paige Trophy with straight bullets in four races, followed by '84 Olympic gold medalist and former Star world champion Bill Buchan in second, sailing with his grandson Jamie.

Vanguard 15 Fleet 53 Champs

With the '10 Svendsen's Thursday Night Series a fading memory, 15 teams of Bay Area Vanguard 15 sailors loaded their boats and headed to Tomales Bay for Fleet 53's championship, hosted by the ever-hospitable Inverness YC.

After sailing all of PRO Rolf Kaiser's 29 races, skipper Sally Madsen and husband Adam Rothschild took top honors, finishing just one point clear of Andrea Cabito and Andrew Kobylinski, who traded off the helming duties. Sailing in breeze that ranged from 6 to 12 knots, the duos battled it out all weekend with Madsen and Rothschild sailing a brilliant Sunday, owning the favored end of the line all day long.

The event featured a wide mix of sailors. There were at least three father/son teams with kids as young as kindergarten age "toughing" it out on the Bay on what was probably the most beautiful weekend of the month. There were husband/wife and boyfriend/girlfriend teams and more than a few women driving their own boats. Although down from the peak attendance of 18 boats, there was no shortage of competition, with some of the best of the Thursday night bunch showing up for the "away game".

And, although it was a camping regatta — the bulk of the sailors pitched tents at the Olema Campground — the meals, which were included in the entry fee, were anything but campstyle. 'Sailing widower' Andrew Shaw, husband of fleet president Natasha Baker and a professional chef, seized control of the Inverness YC galley and cooked gourmet fare.

He opened Saturday's dinner with a tomato and pasilla chile gazpacho, which was followed by roasted pork tenderloin with plum sauce, or savory fritatta, with red quinoa on the side. Dessert was a scratch-made puff pastry with fresh fruit filling. And all that came in between the gourmet lunches he prepared on both Saturday and Sunday! We're pretty sure

Vallejo 1-2

As the final event of the Singlehanded Sailing Society's season, the Vallejo 1-2 is perhaps bittersweet for the legions of faithful shorthanded sailors who showed up October 16-17. But not even rain for the return trip could prevent 61 one of the 63 boats that made the trip down from racing hard all the way back up San Pablo Bay.

Saturday's singlehanded trip from Richmond down to Vallejo turned out to be a nice easy run with only a few holes in the fleet's way. Dan Alvarez' needle-thin JS9000 JetStream was first on both elapsed time and corrected time, beating an F-27 in the process!

On Sunday, nearly all of the singlehanders were joined by a crewmember for the trip home. Although the day started out rainy and fluky, the moisture ultimately bailed by the finish and breeze held steady for the bulk of the trip home. Bruce Blackie and Bruce Lindsay aboard Blackie's J/105

007 ended up taking elapsed time honors, while Bren Meyer and Steve Winner aboard the latter's Wyliecat 30 Uno took the overall corrected-time honors for the doublehanded leg.

But it was Will Paxton and Emma Creighton who took the overall honors for both days combined.

"It had been awhile since I'd done an SSS event," Paxton said. "I'd forgotten how refreshing it is. The people have such a good attitude about going out and challenging themselves by sailing short-handed, plus they're competitive too and fun to have a beer with at the end of the day."

Chef Andrew Shaw served up some epicurean delights.

Women Skippers Regatta

The Sausalito YC hosted the 30th annual Women Skippers Regatta on October 2. What started out as a gray day couldn't dampen the enthusiasm of the 12 teams — six of which were all-women — that showed up.

THE BOX SCORES

Beer cans have finally come to a close, which means that if you don't see yours listed in here, you didn't send us the results, or you did, and we lost them! Get them to us by the 15th of November and we may just include them in next month's Box Scores. We say "may" because as you know, when beer cans end, midwinters begin. That means that come next month, this space will already be filling up with results from the Bay's various midwinter series as their organizing clubs post results from what will probably be some of the warmer sailing you'll do on the Bay all year.

As with beer cans, our style guide for midwinters results is right here in front of you. If you take the time to type them out in the format you see here, they are guaranteed to get into the magazine, as it just makes life that much easier for us when our results gnome decides to play hooky. We need the boat name, type of boat (for handicap divisions) and the skipper's name. When you've gotten all that info together, just send it on to the Racing Editor at rob@latitude38.com. Thanks!

paced event. After a keynote address by Volvo Ocean Race and America's Cup veteran Katie Pettibone over breakfast at the club, the teams hit the water for the three-race event on a Knox race course. With Women's International Match Racing Association President and all-around shredder Liz Baylis taking on the PRO duties and leading a Q&A session, the event's talent wasn't just limited to the sailors.

After three races, Rachel Fogel — fresh off a division runner-up finish in this year's Pacific Cup — came out on top of the three-boat spinnaker division with Jordan Paxhia at the helm. Her Express 27 Great White also finished as the top all-women crew.

In the non-spinnaker division for boats rating under PHRF 200, Barbara Kavanagh's Tartan 10 Gammon beat three other boats for the win.

For the non-spinnaker boats rating over PHRF 200, Cathy Stierhoff's Santana 22 Tackful took top honors.

After a short day on the water, the teams returned to the club for a barbecue, drinks and dancing, and of course the awards: framed boat photos.

For Baylis, involvement was a no brainer, given she had a rare opening in her schedule (the following week she was off to South Africa to host the first ever women's match racing clinic on the continent).

"I got involved when Gail wrote to me and asked if I would be PRO since this was the 30th anniversary and they wanted a female PRO this year," Baylis said. "I thought it was a good event to support — it has been a mainstay on the calendar for a long time. Long before it was common to see women steering, this event empowered women by giving them a chance to be in charge, and it's great to see the event enduring."

BIG Team Regatta

The kids of Treasure Island Sailing Center received a check for $35,000 as a result of the 6th Annual BIG Team Regatta fundraiser held on October 1 at OCSC. Six four-person teams made up of executives from Mechanics Bank, PG&E, Hanson Bridgett, Almar Marinas, and ACCO Engineered Systems, Inc., competed in the race on the Circle for bragging rights and to show their support for youth and adaptive sailing.

The BIG Team Regatta, an annual corporate sailing challenge founded by the team-building company Group Experiential Learning, has been a critical source of funding for TISC's youth and adaptive sailing programs for the past six years.

Each corporate team donates $5,000 to fund full and partial scholarships for developmentally disabled youth and children from under-served communities. Each corporate donation gets approximately 33 children out on the water, and TISC provides unlimited scholarships to those in financial need. Approximately 75% of the 1,000 students served each year are on scholarship.

"The regatta was a huge success for the Treasure Island Sailing Center foundation," said Lacey Todd, operations manager for TISC (www.tisailing.org). "The money we raised from our sponsors will get more kids on the water; kids who might not otherwise get the opportunity to sail the Bay. The kids also had a lot of fun helping prepare for the regatta, and enjoyed speaking at the awards ceremony

After spending the morning learning how to sail, participants strategized over lunch, and then returned to the bay for a series of exciting races. Meanwhile, volunteers from the San Francisco Junior League worked on shore to prepare for the post-race awards ceremony and regatta party. One of the most celebrated awards handed out, the “Broken Tiller,” went to Mechanics Bank for performing the most spectacular and outrageous maneuver of the day. Taking first place in the actual racing was PG&E Team 2, followed by their sister ship, PG&E Team 1. Third place honors went to Almar Marinas, a team that has participated every year since the inception of the event in '05. Osprey Cup

One of the Bay’s Olympic hopefuls, Genny Tulloch, posted another strong result in her quest for a trip to Weymouth in '12 by winning the 10-team Rolex Osprey Cup match racing regatta in St. Petersburg, Florida October 20-23.

Sailing in Sonars with Alice Manard Leonard, Jenn Chamberlin, and Alana O'Reilly, Tulloch won the 2010 Rolex Osprey Cup after a hard-fought battle with defending champion Italian Giulia Conti, who has won the event three times and sailed with the same crew as last year: Alessandra Angelini, Lisa Lardani and Giovanna Micol.

Although a lack of breeze cut short the second round-robin on the penultimate day of racing, there was enough wind on

THE RACING

At the start of the semi-finals, Tulloch and crew had lost only one match during the round-robin series. In the semi-final rounds, they defeated Rebecca Dellenbaugh 3-1 while Conti was 3-0 over Katy Lovell, setting the stage for an exciting final.

"It was really great racing against Guilia's team," said Tulloch after her 3-2 victory.

Tulloch went on to describe sailing two very close races in the final series, including one in which Conti trailed with a penalty before passing Tulloch on the downwind.

"They spun it, which allowed us to leebow her and then luff her at the windward mark — leading to a very close downwind leg that we won," she said. "The following race we were leading the whole way, but she kept bringing breeze down on the last downwind and actually passed us one boat length from the finish line which forced us to the sudden death match! Happily for us, after a close first upwind, we opened up a lead on the top layline and held it from there to the finish."

Latitude 38 Beer Can Challenge

After a year of no one stepping up to the plate, two more sailors have stepped up to the Beer Can Challenge this year, and conquered it! The first was retired engineer Dave Cowell of the Delta-based Islander 30 Mas Tiempo, named for a toast given in Spanish that roughly translates as, "to health, money, love and more time to enjoy them all."

"After attending the All-Islander regatta at Encinal YC on September 25, Mas Tiempo, my Islander 30, competed in the Monday Night Madness at Bay View Boat Club, the Tuesday Sunset Series at Sausalito YC, Wednesday Night Series in Vallejo, a Thursday nighter at Benicia YC and on Friday, the Andreas Cove Beer Cans," Cowell said. "The beer of choice was Tecate and the crew was Stan Jones and Dave Chiodo. It was a fun and informative time and we can't wait until next year!"

The second was 53 year-old Jerry Robinson sailing aboard Mark Wyland's J/105 Lucky Star (Jerry's a main trimmer and occasionally foredeck when needed) and Ric Swensson's Catalina 38 Rascal (helm and foredeck) down in Southern California. If the five straight nights of Beer cans constitutes the Beer Can Challenge, then Robinson sailed an Iron Man:

13 races in 12 consecutive days!

"It was a very trying 13 days," Robinson said. "I was tired after that run. I guess I have what you'd call an obsession."

Robinson's run started with the Bahia Corinthian YC's Ocean Race Series on August 8, followed by the American Legion YC's Lucky Star race, the BCYC's Taco Tuesday Harbor Series, the South Shore YC's Hibachi Harbor Series, a Balboa YC beer can, a practice, Newport Ocean Sailing Association's Gil Knudson Race, the American Legion YC's Sundowner Series, another Taco Tuesday, another Hibachi series and another Balboa YC beer can!

That's all-time in our book!

Race Note

The Corinthian YC Midwinters are celebrating their 60th anniversary this year. First run in 1951, this venerable regatta turns sixty in the same year that the Club turns 125. To celebrate, the club has dropped the entry fee to $60 for those who enter prior to 2011 — $75 for those who enter after. Of course these benefits are in addition to the great parties and prizes, and good weather — guaranteed by Lloyds! (Okay, not really But there's still no excuse not to sign up)

In addition, the club is adding a bonus race — a Saturday Pursuit race on March 19. It doesn't count for the Midwinter Trophies, but there will be prizes. The dates for the "normal" Corinthian Midwinters are January 15-16, February 19-20.

*We depart from our normal format here, to test your knowledge of

Are You a Chartering Know-It-All? Try Our Worldwide Sailing Quiz

Just for fun, we thought we'd break out of our usual routine this month and give you a little stimulation for the gray matter that resides between your ears.

If you're a well-traveled sailor, you ought to score high on the quiz that follows, because most answers are common knowledge within the sailing venues that they relate to. On the other hand, if the listings on your travel resume don't extend beyond Bakersfield, perhaps these brain teasers will inspire you to get out and explore the world a bit — under sail, of course.

To our way of thinking, international travel is a life-enhancing pastime that will likely expand your grasp of history while giving you a deeper understanding of the cultures you visit. Depending on where you travel, you may also gain a greater appreciation for the complexity of the international issues of the day. Not only that, but travel — especially on a sailboat — is physically exhilarating and a whole lot of fun. Just the tonic you need to combat the ills of the workaday world.

So take a crack at our quiz and see just how worldly you are. Who knows, you may be encouraged to step out of your normal routine and book a sailing trip to a place you'd never considered before. (You'll find the answers on the last page of this World of Chartering section.)

In the Leeward Islands of Tahiti, inter-island crossings can be exhilarating, in contrast to lazy sailing within the protected lagoons.

With reports this month from Lazy Daze on a 24-day crossing to Hawaii; from Azure II on the Pimentel Family's continuing adventures in the Med; from Flashgirl on Mooloolaba, Australia; from Don Quixote on the Conger family giving up on giving up cruising; from Scarlett O'Hara on the good and the bad of the Sail Indonesia Rally; and Cruise Notes.

Lazy Daze — Ericson 41 Rick Daniels Straight To Hawaii (San Diego)

I finally sailed to Hawaii! I departed San Diego on July 9, and thought we made it in 24 days — but the log says it was only 23 days. No matter, as it was quite a ride and quite a sailing adventure!

I normally single-hand, but I wouldn't have felt comfortable with my boat sailing for long periods without anyone on deck. As much as I didn't want to have crew, it's such a long way to Hawaii that I decided I needed some. Taking crew turned out to be the right decision for me.

In order to find crew, I put a listing on Latitude's 'Captains Looking for Crew' list and also sent quite a few emails to people who had posted under 'Crew Looking for Boats'. The first woman who responded and could fit my schedule sounded great when we communicated by email and chatted on the phone. As I was planning to do some glasswork on my foredeck at Catalina, I invited her along for a tryout of sorts. She showed up the day before we were to take off, and loaded her gear onboard. We had a pleasant evening until she pulled out a bag of 'ice'.

"Is this a problem?" she asked when she saw the alarmed look on my face.

After 23 days of runs of as little as 44 miles and as much as 144 miles, 'Lazy Daze' sails on the blue waters off the green hills of Maui.

"Drugs are a deal-breaker on my boat," I replied as we offloaded her gear.

I went back to the list and found Bryan, a nice young guy, and his girlfriend. She decided not to go, but didn't mind if Bryan did. When Tim answered my ad and we got on, we had our crew of three.

The first five or six days were frustrating. We got so close to San Clemente Island in the light winds that a patrol boat made us backtrack eight miles and turn south! Then we had days of no wind to speak of. Six days out, however, we got hit by such a strong blow that we were forced to run with the big swells for three days. Then we 'squall surfed' for a day. We'd be sailing in 5 to 10 knots of wind, see a squall, and track it down. Once in the squall, we'd have 20 knots of wind, so we'd run along the face of it. Once we'd sailed out of it, we'd look for another.

Once the weather cleared for a few days, we sailed with two poled-out headsails — during which time we caught two yellowfin tuna and three dorado. Before we made it to the islands, we'd set every sail combination possible on my boat — including flying the spinnaker.

Our original destination was Honolua Bay on Maui, but for the last five days we had 25 to 35 knots of wind, along with 10-ft waves stacking up on 15-ft swells. We sailed with all four reefs in the main for the remainder of the trip, and set the baby stay to provide additional support for the mast. Despite carrying so little sail, we ran at 6 to 8 knots most of the time. Nonetheless, the noise inside the boat was deafening, so none of us got much sleep. Since the weather was so bad and we weren't getting much rest, we decided to divert to Kahului, Maui, which was closer than Honolua Bay.

Most of the equipment on Lazy Daze held up fine. To save money, I have a wheel-mounted autopilot rather than one mounted belowdecks. It performed well in all but high speed dead-downwind conditions. The belt finally broke 60 miles out, forcing us to hand-steer the rest of the way to port. The electric toilet broke almost immediately. I'm not sure why, but I'll be replacing it with a manual one. Simple is best. The line for the boom vang broke, but that's easy to replace. The cover for the starboard side jib sheet frayed badly, and ended up looking twice as old as the one on the port side. The shower sump quit — probably because I forgot to open the drain thru-hull while it was being used. But the damage and wear weren't bad.

My vintage Ericson stayed dry — except for the one sneaker wave that got us. The wave came from just off the bow and hit the side of the boat with such force that she was knocked 10 feet sideways. The wave rolled completely over the boat, and we took 20 or 30 gallons under the forward edge of the dodger and down the open hatch. We'd had the companionway boards in place, but the hatch had been left open to get air down below.

I was at the helm when the wave hit, and I estimate that it was no bigger than any of the others we'd been seeing. The difference is that it came from a different direction, and was very steep and nearly breaking at the top. It seemed to me that the wave was moving two or three times as fast as all the others. The sound of the wave hitting the hull was startling, but there was no damage.

My crew took a ferry to Honolulu the day after we arrived. Tim had no problem taking the rented EPIRB back, but the rented liferaft proved to be a big problem. It couldn't go by air because the full cylinder qualified it as dangerous cargo. We ultimately had to use a freight forwarder to get the job done — at twice the price we'd figured. If anyone is going to rent a liferaft for a trip to Hawaii, make sure you first make arrangements to have it shipped back.

After saying good-bye to the crew in Kahului, I hung around for two weeks of recuperation before sailing to Lahaina on the backside of Maui. I stayed on a mooring belonging to a friendly and accommodating member of the Lahaina YC until I completed arrangements to sublet a mooring. It's possible to anchor off Lahaina, but thanks to only a thin layer of sand over lava, it's hard to get an anchor to really set, and boats frequently drag. The water is crystal clear out at the mooring, and it's so warm that you can comfortably stay in until you 'prune up'. I've also enjoyed being visited by two sea turtles.

My plan is to get a job here — slim pickings so far — for the winter in order to save money so that I can really check out the islands next summer.

I'll let you know what I find.

Azure II — Leopard 47 The Pimentel Family Spain and Italy (Alameda)

When Rodney and I sailed to Mexico, the South Pacific, and New Zealand 10 years ago aboard our Jeanneau 36 Azure, we were younger and RJ and Leo hadn't been born yet. As a result, we were willing to run the risks of going without boat or health insurance. Now that we have two children and a more expensive boat, we decided that both health and boat insurance are necessities for our current cruise to and around the Med.

We paid $5,250 to Willis Insurance for our first year of boat insurance, which covered everywhere in the world — except for Colombia and Cuba — as well as our transatlantic crossing. Since we're only cruising the Western Med this year, we managed to get insurance with well-respected Pantaenius for just $2,400/year. You almost have to have insurance to cruise the Med, as most marinas require proof of it, and sometimes it's just not feasible to anchor out.

Our family of four pays $2,200 a year to Blue Water Insurance for health insurance — as long as we live outside of the United States for six months a year. There is a $5,000 deductible with the policy.

When you reach a country that is part of the European Union, you only have to check in that one time for the whole E.U. zone. You check in by bringing all your paperwork to a marina office, so you don't have to make a visit to Customs or Immigration. When you do check in, you get an authorization to keep your boat in the European Union zone for up to 18 months. If you stay longer than that, you either have to pay value added tax (VAT) on your boat, which is expensive, Father knows best. Rodney comes through with the delicious Orange Sollers, a specialty of the village of Soller, in a beautiful plaza setting.

or simply check out to a non-EU country such as Croatia, Turkey, Malta or Tunisia. Once you check into a non-E.U. country, you can return to the European Union zone, at which point the 18-month clock starts ticking from scratch again. Of course, the non-E.U. countries have their own sets of rules and fees, so it takes some planning. For instance, other cruisers have told us that Croatia has become so popular that it's instituted fees for cruising, for hotel beds, and most recently for anchoring. As a result, we're trying to decide whether we really want to go there.

Rodney and Jane at the old light on Dragonera Island. The one thing that makes cruising the Med more expensive than other places is the high cost of marina slips. While we usually try to anchor out, we've had to stay at marinas in Portugal (the Azores), Spain and Italy. On the other hand, we were always able to anchor out on Mallorca, the biggest of Spain's Balearic Islands.

From June through September, we needed to stay in marinas about 30% of the time. Our 47-foot cat has a relatively large footprint, so we've had to pay anywhere from $40 to $110 a night. And we purposely avoided the most expensive places. Nonetheless, we've had a couple of things in our favor. First, the dollar was strong against the euro — although recently it's taken a tumble. Second, the economic slowdown resulted in marinas not being full, giving us the opportunity to negotiate for lower rates. Some marinas even had 'cat specials', where we were able to pay the same price as a

We're going to keep our boat in a marina in southern Italy for the rainy winter because the long term rates are much lower — about $550 a month — than in other places. This will allow us to return to the Bay Area for the holidays to visit family and friends without having to worry about our boat.

We've found the price of food and fuel to be reasonable in the Western Med. When we get to Greece and Turkey next summer, we'll be able to anchor out almost all the time, and hopefully that will put us back on budget.

One disappointment has been trying to get reliable internet access on our boat — even in the marinas. It wasn't until we got to Italy that we were able to buy a data card that allows us to use our iPhone as a tethering device.

We've found people in the Med to be friendly and helpful. While we always attempt to communicate in the local language, we thankfully have almost always been able to find people who speak English.

To catch up on our travels, we spent the last two weeks of August in magnificent Mallorca. The steep hills, clear water, and the capital of Palma were all wonderful. We primarily visited the south and west sides of the island: first, Porto Andraitx, then the little island of Dragonera, and lastly Porto de Soller. Dragonera is a nature preserve with no inhabitants. We were drawn to the top of the high hills, and were rewarded for our three-hour trek with beautiful views.

We then left the southern part of the island and went around to Port Soller on the northwest coast. Boats filled the anchorage, but we were able to squeeze into a great spot. From the port, we were able to take a 20-minute open-air tram ride to the quaint town of Soller. If you ever get to Soller, you must try an Orange Soller! They use organic oranges grown on the island to make a sorbet, then add fresh squeezed orange juice, light whipped cream, a dash of chocolate sauce, and a cookie. Mmmmm! And you enjoy the treat while sitting around a charming European plaza, making life very good indeed. We loved these Orange Sollers so much that we once walked the 1.5 miles into Soller to get more!

From Soller, we rode the historic 1912 Victorian train over the mountains to the capital of Palma. The old and mostly wooden train chugged over mountains and through tunnels, and had us hanging on during the twists and turns. It was way better than a Disney ride. We like our tasty beverages, so while in Palma we visited an old dairy cafe that has the best hot chocolate in Spain. It was like drinking a candy bar.

While in Porto de Soller, we finally met a few other American boats, and the English boat Revolution with Wesley, a nine-year-old whom our boys could relate to. Although it was fun meeting the locals, it was still great to enjoy some camaraderie with other Americans.

We then spent almost two weeks around Menorca, the second largest of the four Balearic Islands, which is only a short distance to the east of Mallorca. Cruisers we'd met raved about Menorca, saying it is less touristy and offers anchorages that aren't surrounded by developments. There is a good reason Clockwise from above; Cruising scenes from Menorca. 'Azure II', as seen in the Caribbean, before the Pimentels crossed the Atlantic.

Menorca is less developed than Mallorca and Ibiza. When General Franco took power after the atrocious Spanish Civil War (1936-'39), he rewarded the loyalty of Mallorca and Ibiza with lots of development money. Menorca, which had sided with the Republicans, was punished by not getting any development funds. But today Menorca is having the last laugh, because the lack of high-rises and unchecked development is what makes the island so special and so different from the other Balearics.

Menorca lived up to its nickname of 'the windy island'. Although we enjoyed the island, we didn't like having to move from one side to the other because of the wind. We did, however, meet some great new friends aboard Juno and Time Warp, two American boats with boys onboard. So there were Monopoly parties, sleepovers, and movies on Azure II, aka 'the party palace'. It was sad to part ways, since these boats were leaving the Med as we were entering it.

We were thrilled to have Southern California friends Greg and Linda visit us as part of their two-week tour of Spain. And it wasn't just because they brought us Peet's coffee, Trader Joe's peanut butter, school books, and two new faucets. By the time they arrived, we knew the ways of the Menorcan winds, and were familiar with the island. The timing of their visit happened to coincide with the wild and fantastic Jaleo de Menorca festival. We also spent two days at one of the many attractive anchorages, where we kayaked, hiked, and did some scuba diving. When their visit came to an end, we dropped them off at the dock in Mahon — where mayonnaise was created. Since there was a perfect weather window, we said goodbye to them and Spain, and set out for the big Italian island of Sardinia.

Buongiorno! We are loving our first days in Italy, as the people are friendly, the Sardinian countryside beautiful, and the wine and cheese delicious and inexpensive. It took us two days to sail to Sardinia from Menorca. The only downside in Carloforte was that it was the most expensive marina to date — over $100 — and that was with the low-season rate! We subsequently moved to the spectacular large bay of Porto Malfatano at the southern tip of the island, where we could anchor for free. We would have been happy to stay in Sardinia longer — it's that lovely — but we needed to continue east. So we had another two-day sail to Sicily, which is where we are now. We're enjoying yet another local festival, although this one doesn't have horses that dance through the middle of packed crowds as in Menorca. But the couscous and fish are delicious in Sicily, and everyone we've met has been so warm and welcoming! I think we're going to stay in Italy a while!

Flashgirl — Wylie 38+ Warwick and Nancy Tompkins Mooloolaba, Queensland, Oz (Mill Valley)

We're here at Mooloolaba, a resort town of fewer than 10,000 some 60 miles northeast of Brisbane. It's an all-weather harbor with marinas and residences fronting the entire inland waterway. Some of the houses are quite grand, but even the lesser ones have a gangway or float with some sort of water toy — be it a Jet Ski, paddleboard, outrigger canoe, launch, or yacht. Everybody seems to be water-oriented. Flashgirl is currently anchored in what's known as the 'town basin', the only place with enough depth so that she — with her 9-ft draft — can float on all tides. Given the thin water, it's no wonder there are so many catamarans in the area.

The headland and harbor at Mooloolaba, north of Brisbane. With great beaches and a great harbor, no wonder it's such a popular resort.

Lawrie's is the only facility for hauling yachts in Mooloolaba, but it's a good one — and one familiar to many West Coast cruisers who have come this way. I think the prices are reasonable: $4.45/ft to haul, $30 for hardstand props, and $1.55/ft for lay days. The prices are probably 40% lower than in big population centers such as Sydney and Brisbane.

The yard did a superior job of painting Flashgirl's topsides with Alexseal, a paint formulated by the same fellow who created Awlgrip those many years ago. It's an improvement, we hear, and very much favored by the 'mega-slut' yachts that seem to be proliferating. The bottom was stripped to the original gel coat and painted with an anti-fouling made by the same company that produces Alexseal. In my opinion Micron 66 is the preferred product because it's easy to spray on smoothly, is good at preventing growth, and is durable. Micron 66 is also the most expensive.

Having finally gotten the last bit of painting done during a break in 10 days of intermittent rain, we're therefore ready to head to the Great Barrier Reef, which starts about 200 miles north.

I get my overall sense of the weather in this part of Queensland from Alan Lucas' Cruising the Coral Coast, as well as those old standbys, the pilot charts. Thank you, Matthew Fontaine Maury, who inadvertently became the father of oceanography as the result of a stage-coach accident that ended his career on navy ships. It was Maury who began utilizing all the ships' logs to create the ships' pilot charts. I can't help but wonder if anyone besides us has a complete set of pilot charts for both the North and South Pacific.

The pilot charts and Lucas agree that the cyclone season along this coast doesn't begin until the end of December or early January. As for now, early October, Lucas speaks of predominant southeasterlies some 1,400 miles to Cape York, which is the northeastern tip of the continent. At this point in the season, however, the southeasterlies are likely to come and go, interspersed with northerlies which can blow for 30-48 hours. These northers sometimes blow fresh, which I take to mean 25 to 35 knots. One would want to take shelter while these were blowing. Lucas doesn't speak much about temperatures, but my pilot charts tell me that here at 27°S, the mean temperature is about 71°, with the sea temp about the same. At Cape York and the Torres Strait, we're expecting air and water temperatures of about 82°.

Along the east coast of Australia there is a strong south-setting current that occasionally reaches four knots, and comes with eddies and meanders. This adverse current makes the north-bound passage a coast-hugging business, so the navigator doesn't get a lot of sleep. When we came north to Mooloolaba from Sydney, a passage of about 550 miles, we were seldom more than a few miles offshore at night, and frequently much closer during the day. This East Australian Current is also present inside the Great Barrier Reef, but with lesser velocity.

The width of the 'protected' water diminishes as one goes north inside the Barrier Reef, which shuts off all the open ocean swell. One sails in wind chop, with restricted fetch. At the south end of the reef, that fetch is about 80 miles east-west, but it's much less as one approaches the Torres Strait. If the wind blows hard parallel to the coast, a sea will naturally rise because of the much longer fetch in those directions. Fortunately, one can usually expect either SE or NW winds, which are somewhat athwart the waterways. Once in the Barrier Reef area, there are countless anchorages.

We've met numerous boats from Northern California during our last few years of cruising. While in Tonga, we visited with the Easterlys, of the Santa Cruz 50 Red Sky, who subsequently sold the boat to David Addleman in Malaysia. While in Tonga we also met Jim Fryer, who was sailing his Wylie 34 Cheyenne.

IN LATITUDES

He and his boat have returned to San Francisco. Over the last few days we have befriended Steve and Dorothy Darden sailing — cripes! — the 52-ft catamaran Adagio that was designed by M&M with much consultation from Carl Schumacher. The Dardens, who lived in Tiburon for a number of years, are citizens of the world, with berths in Hobart, Tasmania, and San Francisco — among other places. While in New Zealand, we met with former Bay Area resident Glen Andert on his N/M 55 Learjet. He doesn't seem as if he's headed back to the States anytime soon. While in Darwin, we met Bill and Janet Wickman, two former airline pilots from McKinleyville, CA, sailing something called Airstream. What great folks! Also among our favorite people are Dave and Anna Fourie, he of South Africa, she of England. The couple bought the Hughes 38 Thula Mama in Oregon, sailed her down the coast, spent a lot of time in San Francisco, then took off across the Pacific. We met them in Tahiti, and sailed to several islands in company with them. They ended up in Brisbane, Australia, where they obtained permanent residence. After selling their Hughes, they bought a Radford 46, and are about to depart Darwin for Singapore with a new crewman — their nearly year-old son. There are cruisers out here from all over the world, and they are going everywhere you can imagine.

The publisher of Latitude had some questions for me about Flashgirl that I'll now attempt to answer. I haven't kept close count, but she has about 25,000 miles beneath her keel since her launching 10 years ago. After crossing the Pacific, we have spent rather a lot of time alongshore in both New Zealand and Australia, and in addition did a 5,000-mile delivery of an awful yellow catamaran to Japan.

I truly enjoy Flashgirl. Her sailing characteristics are above reproach. I could not possibly be so happy with what most would describe as a 'true cruising boat'! Our boat — like so many — is a trifle too small to live in with great facility, or for the longer ocean crossings. She is, by design from the outset, the largest boat I could hope to afford to build myself and to maintain. I think it a great error to involve oneself with a vessel beyond one's means, and spend one's time scrimping and saving, establishing priorities as to what will be repaired or replaced, and what will not. I've been at sea since I was in diapers nearly 80 years ago, and I know that real safety at sea does not come from a number of PFDs or a satphone, but rather from the finest gear, all in working order and vigilance on the part of the operator, coupled with enough experience to know how to operate both the vessel and the gear.

I entered a form of trap when I built Flashgirl, for I decided that I would design and fabricate parts that would be aesthetically satisfying as well as functional. This entailed much extra work and time, along with some additional expense. But now I can greatly enjoy our boat merely by looking at many of those parts. As such, the 'trap' was a huge success.

The disproportionate number of catamarans at Mooloolaba is indicative of the "thin" water at many places on the east coast of Australia.

Like most boats, Flashgirl is a collection of compromises. In my case, I leaned heavily toward performance, and tried for simplicity. Thank God for the latter, as I find the electronics and mechanics to be plenty daunting and complex!

Flashgirl's rig, her sails, and all allied gear have worked nearly flawlessly. Hanked-on headsails have been just right, although we are almost always the only boat around not carrying what Jim Jessie — the retired surveyor and circumnavigator from Alameda — once called 'roller falling' headsails. As I approach my 80th birthday, I occasionally wonder if that will change.

Flashgirl is unusual in that she was designed and built with a lifting keel. Deep draft is a great thing for sailing efficiency, while shoal draft is great for getting alongshore. Our keel is presently fixed in the down position, as I failed to properly understand and apply the correct engineering at the outset. I yearn for the lifting keel, have a design for it, and hope to implement it one day. Meanwhile, we sail with over 9-foot draft on a 38-ft boat, which is extremely inconvenient along the east coast of Australia. With close attention to tidal issues, we are managing adequately, even here in Mooloolaba where the water is quite thin indeed!

I truly love the way Flashgirl looks and the way she feels under sail. The water-ballast is wonderful, most often good to keep her upright and comfortable, and to give us an extra half-knot or so of speed. A new and different boat is not imaginable — short of our winning a very large lottery. But if it were, I would have Tom Wylie draw me a 46-footer, Commodore built his dinghy — which sails well, too — himself. If you want it done your way, you usually need to build it yourself.

similar to Ahava, but a cutter, sporting a big enough rig so that there would be no need for overlapping sails. The shrouds would be PBO with chainplates at the sheer, making the side-decks more pleasant. The rig would be fractional, and I would have a 'gull-wing' boom of carbon fiber. She would have a power-driven anchor windlass, and the hull would have an inch or more of coring for insulation in the tropics. She would have a lifting keel, very much like the one currently in Flashgirl, but I would spend much time and money on the engineering. The sailing characteristics of a deep, narrow fin are wonderful!

Don Quixote — Lagoon 380 The Conger Family Back from NZ to Puddle Jump (Seattle / New Zealand / Mexico)

The girls are coming back — then taking off again! We're referring to the well-known-in-Mexico Conger girls, Jaime, 15, Mera, 12, and Aeron, 10. The Seattle-based girls did the '08 Ha-Ha with their parents Dean and Toast, then cruised Mexico for two very active seasons. Toast and the girls even had some big excitement, for after a trip home to Seattle, they returned to Don Quixote in Santa Rosalia, minus Dean, who was still working, just in time to get whacked by hurricane Jimena. Scary stuff.

After two seasons in Mexico, the family decided to relocate in New Zealand. Rather than sail there on Don Quixote, they put their cat up for sale in La Paz and flew to the Land of the Long White Cloud aboard a 777. They received a warm welcome in Auckland, as virtually all their stuff was stolen the first week.

We recently learned that the Conger gals will be returning to Don Quixote at the beginning of February, followed by Dean a month later. For they've changed their plans once again, and now intend to depart La Paz in mid-March on a Puddle Jump. We asked Toast for an explanation.

"We've had mixed feelings about New Zealand. It's very much like Seattle, which is probably why we're restless and not particularly enthusiastic about staying there. If we wanted to live a normal Pacific Northwest sort of life, we'd do it in the real Pacific Northwest, where we could make more money and buy cheap romano at Costco. New Zealand is beautiful, green, lush, and friendly — just like the Pacific Northwest. When we were in Mexico, at least we knew we were in a foreign country, and were having new experiences. It's hasn't been so much that way here in New Zealand, for within a matter of months even the roads and place names didn't sound strange. When you get right down to it, there isn't much difference between Pukekohe and Issaquah. A native place name is a native place name, and the towns pretty much look identical, with lovely little main streets, dollar stores, cafes and restaurants with the gas stations, and the big box stores on the highway leading into town.

"We don't want to give anyone the impression we're bitter or disappointed with New Zealand. It's just that if asked to recommend a place that's exotic and interesting to visit, New Zealand wouldn't be at the top of our list. That said, New Zealand is a very good place to plump the cruising kitty. It would be 'great', not just 'good', except that Kiwi businesses don't pay as well as they do in the U.K.,

internet. As you know, I'm a internet social network geek, but I'm also a technical writer by trade. So I've got the chops to put this together. We'll see how far I go with it.

"But, I will have a free hard copy of the draft that I'll be happy to share with all of next year's Puddle Jumpers. I'll worry about a revenue-sustaining model for the next season. Heh, that makes me just about as stupid as every other blogger on the internet. At least I'm in good company.

"We're all eager to return to Don Quixote, although she's completely empty because we were trying to sell her. That means we're going to have to do a complete reprovisioning in La Paz in the month before we Puddle Jump. Shopping. Ugh. My least favorite thing to do.

Indonesia Rally Review
(San Diego)

The Darwin to Indonesia Rally appealed to us mostly because it would save us time and trouble going through the complicated paperwork process for Indonesia, and because it meant we wouldn't have to pay for a bond for our boat while she was in the country. In these respects, the rally did what it claimed it would do. Obtaining our CAIT (cruising permit), visas, and clearance papers in Darwin was a snap. In addition, the parties in Darwin were well-organized, and the communication with the fleet was excellent. The Darwin

United States, or Australia. Nonetheless, well-trained Americans and Canadians can get a good job in pretty much all the white collar sectors, and many of the blue collar ones, too. Of interest to some Latitude readers, boat riggers and mechanics are — as can be seen on the Kiwi immigration website — short-listed for New Zealand visas.

"As for Jaime, our oldest, she likes New Zealand so much that she plans to return and become a citizen. She's going to graduate — which you are allowed to do here any time after age 16 — and apply for college in New Zealand. Mera and Aeron like New Zealand well enough, but they would much rather return to Don Quixote and home-schooling. The girls have become world citizens, however, so don't hold your breath on any of them voluntarily returning to live in the United States. In fact, it's their restlessness as much as Dean's and my own that is pushing the family out of our Kiwi suburban nest. All of us are super enthusiastic about doing the Puddle Jump in the spring.

"As for myself, I'm soooo looking forward to being back on our catamaran.

"I see that Heather Bansmer and Shawn Breeding, the folks who produced the terrific Sea of Cortez, A Cruiser's Guide, have just released their new book, Pacific Mexico, A Cruiser's Guide. This is good news for cruisers in Mexico, but also brings me to my latest news. I am so frickin' frustrated with the quality — or lack thereof — of the cruising guides for the Puddle Jumpers that I've started writing my own. I've got notions of 'crowd-sourcing' it, so it would basically be Active Captain without all the heavy overhead or the necessity to connect to the

CHANGES

Sailing Club went out of its way to assist us with everything from bus schedules to information about where to find what in Darwin.

John — we think it's John — bangs the lip off Nemberala Resort.

The provisioning in Darwin was great. I can't stress enough how how very important provisioning is before sailing on to Indonesia. During our first six weeks there, we found very little to supplement our provisions. The Indonesians must not eat much meat, as it was terribly hard to find any. The only chickens we saw were alive — although people readily offered to kill them for us. This, of course, took us some getting used to. Where was Costco when we needed it? I've always provisioned extensively, and this is one time that it really paid off.

Sail Indonesia had two courses, one to Kupang and the other to Banda. We went to Kupang and had an uneventful passage of three days. The officials in Kupang were ready for us, and the organization, once again, was terrific. A mass check-in/check-out was held, and all seemed to go well. From there, the rally once again offered different routes, and we chose to go to the island of Roti. This is where the rally started to go downhill.

It soon became all too apparent that the rally stops hadn't been chosen because they had good anchorages, but rather because of what the town had apparently offered the organizers in return for bringing the fleet to them. The town of Baa, for instance, expected 100 boats, yet only 10 showed up. The anchorage was very poor, and couldn't have held more than 10 boats anyway. We spent two unpleasant nights there before we bailed out and went to the southern part of Roti — where we found a most incredible anchorage off the Nemberala Beach Resort. What a great place! It sits on a prime piece of beachfront overlooking the famous surf break of the same name. We met surfers from all over the world who had come just for the fabulous surf. The bar was stocked with cold — for once — beer, the owners were friendly, and the atmosphere was great.

There is not much in the way of cruising guides for Indonesia. We had a hard-bound copy of Southeast Asia Cruising Guide, Volume II, but it was just a very general guide to a huge area of ocean dotted with countless islands. Based on the rave reviews of the rally staff, we, like many others, also purchased a copy of 101 Anchorages Within the Indonesian Archipelago that organizers had been flogging. Unfortunately, it would seem that the author must not have been a sailor, and worse, had obviously never been to some of the so-called anchorages. A lot of our cruising friends had similar experiences with the other places the 101 guide sent them.

As a result, we'd make a passage to what was supposed to be a great anchorage, only to find the bottom was either covered in coral or so deep that anchoring was all but impossible. The only option was to continue on through the night — which is downright dangerous in Indonesian waters because of unlit fishing boats, and fishing boats illuminated with strange lights, as well as large floating bamboo structures that rarely showed up on radar. We eventually hit one such bamboo structure, but luckily suffered no major damage to our boat.

We also found that the 101 book had many errors, such as listing the same GPS coordinates for more than one anchorage, claiming sandy bottoms where there was coral, and so forth. Despite this, we used the guide, as we had nothing else to go by.

By the third rally stop, most of the fleet was upset about the terrible places that had been chosen for stops. On the other hand, most enjoyed the festivities ashore, for the towns that hosted rally stops really went out of their way to entertain and feed us. But it was sad, because most of the towns were dirty, the people very poor, and supplies extremely limited. So despite having put up money and having made a big effort to attract future tourists, they aren't going to get them. Given the poor anchoring conditions, even sailors won't be returning. We felt as though towns got gyped by the organizers.

It wasn't until we got to the Lombok/Bali area that we finally found things like meat and chicken breasts. Don't laugh, eating is important out here! Given the previous anchorages, the one at Lovina Beach, Bali, was surprisingly good. The locals were very helpful, too, as they ran down diesel, gas, water, and anything else we needed. And the shopping in the nearby large city was very good.

Unfortunately, this is also where — in our view — the rally simply fell apart. The organizers and Indonesian representatives had promised many participants that their visas would be renewed promptly — for a fee, of course. And that these visa renewals would be ready when they arrived in Lovina. But they were not ready. Many boatowners didn't get their renewals until the end of our time in Bali, at which point we got the news that our paperwork had been done incorrectly at Kupang and would have to be redone in Lovina!

What made it worse was that the rally representatives failed to explain what was going on. This mess lasted for three days, during which time the grapevine seemed to suggest that something new and different would be required. Some boats had left before finding out about the errors, so we can only hope they were able to check out of Indonesia without any huge problems. The Indonesian organizers were simply incompetent.

The highlights of our time in Indonesia were at the Komodo Islands, where we saw the dragons on the beach, and had fabulous snorkeling. We loved the Kumai River, where we went into the jungle to see the orangutans. We also came across some of the most wonderful anchorages we've ever been to. When we found a good one, we tried to spend a week. Among our favorites were at the northeast part of Adunara Island, Teluk Ginggo, North Komodo Island, and Gili Air.

Although some people thought the air temps were too hot, we thought they were exceptionally nice. In fact, we enjoyed more evenings on our aft deck than we did in Mexico! The downside of the pleasant weather was that there wasn't much wind. As a result, we motored more than we have ever motored before. It is unfortunate that the distances are so great, because we had to make some overnight passages. For the final 500 miles or so of our cruise through Indonesia, we had to dodge fishing boats and freighters on a regular basis. Watches were very stressful due to the traffic and the fact that the weather became more unstable as we neared the equator.

Yes, we would do the rally again, but only for the paperwork. For although it got messed up, it eventually was corrected. We're not sure anybody could have gotten the paperwork done without outside help. In our opinion, the biggest problem with the rally is that the organizers and rally representatives are promoters, not sailors. We also feel sorry for the many Indonesian towns that didn't seem to get anywhere near what they had been promised by the promoters. We would like to thank all the host towns for their hospitality, and we'd like to tell the organizers, "It's time to get your act together!"

Cruise Notes:

When you hear cruisers say they feel safer in Mexico than they do in the United States, you shouldn't roll your eyes. Despite the fear-mongering, fact-ignoring stories by the New York Times, the L.A. Times, and CNN, there is good reason for cruisers to feel the way they do. For yes, despite the highly-publicized narco violence in certain well-known areas of Mexico, the rate of death by firearms is actually higher — often much higher — in the United States.

For Mexico as a whole, the death by firearms rate for the first half of '10 was 5.36 per 100,000. For the United States as a whole, it was 10.2 per 100,000 — or nearly twice as high! Not exactly common knowledge, is it? If the U.S. media truly want to warn American travelers about going to dangerous places, where are their warnings about the U.S. Virgin Islands, 'America's Caribbean Paradise'? In '07, the U.S. Virgin Islands' death by firearm rate was 37.6 per 100,000 — more than six times as great as the rate in Mexico. Let's not kid ourselves, as there are some very dangerous places in Mexico, too. The northern state of Chihuahua, where notoriously violent Ciudad Juarez is located, is the worst of them all. But even it has a lower rate of death by firearms than do the U.S. Virgins.

Going to cruise to Puerto Vallarta this winter? You have reason to feel safe. So far this year, Jalisco, the Mexican state in which P.V. is located, has had

As much as we hate to admit it, the U.S. Virgins — this is beautiful Trunk Bay — are far more violent than any region of Mexico.

LATITUDE/NICK

a death by firearm rate of just 2.92 per 100,000, which is about 40% of the rate in California, about 30% of the rate in the southwestern United States, and about 8% of the rate in the U.S. Virgins. Would anyone like to offer any theories on why the U.S. press so greatly exaggerates the violent death story in Mexico, and so under-reports it in the United States?

No matter if you're in the States or in Mexico, the key to safety is staying away from the well-known dangerous areas, not looking for drugs, and not flashing wealth. In other words, don't be an idiot. To the best of our knowledge, the only narco violence along the Pacific Coast of Mexico has been in the megalopolis of Acapulco, where there has been some terrible narco-on-narco violence. Nonetheless, we wouldn't avoid Acapulco any more than we'd avoid San Francisco or Oakland because of their drug violence. We'd be particularly careful, to be sure, but we wouldn't avoid them. So as we're about to cast off for another season in Mexico, from the bottom of our hearts, we believe that we're going to a safer place than the United States. And the facts support our belief. If that changes, we'll be the first to let you know.

Here's a taste of upcoming events for cruisers in Mexico this winter with a list of some of them:

Nov. 11 — Governor's Cup, a four-day, casual rally from Cabo to La Paz right after the finish of the Ha-Ha, sponsored by Veleros de Baja. The group also puts on one themed race each month out of La Paz through the month of June to "get boats off the dock." Everyone welcome.

Nov. 25 — Turkey Day. Although there was no Mayflower to Mexico, everywhere American cruisers gather, there will be turkey, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie.

Nov. 30 - Dec. 3 — Banderas Bay Blast and Pirates for Pupils Spinnaker Run from Punta Mita to Puerto Vallarta. This is 'nothing serious' racing — no handicaps or finish times, so everybody is a winner — that coincides with the annual opening of the Punta Mita Yacht & Surf Club, the Water Balloon Drop from the Nayarit Riviera Marina Sky Bar, the Pirate's Costume Ball, and much other silly stuff. There is no entry fee, but Blast t-shirts are sold to raise money for local charities. Sponsored by the Punta Mita Y&SC and Vallarta YC.

Dec. 4 — Vallarta YC Chili Cook-

Off. The club's biggest charity event of the year is a gas, if you catch our drift, attracting upward of 500 people, many of them cruisers or retired cruisers.

Dec. 25 — Christmas. Feliz Navidad, no matter if you're up at Loreto or down at Bahia Navidad.

Feb. 4 — Puddle Jump Kick-Off Party, Paradise Marina, Nuevo Vallarta. Latitude's Andy 'Mr. Puddle Jump' Turpin and representatives from French Polynesia will be on hand to answer all your questions and help you avoid having to post the normal bond that is so expensive.

Feb. 1-6 — Zihua SailFest. This is the 9th year for the hugely successful cruiser fund-raiser that includes a fun race, a boat parade, and countless other cruiser and community events. SailFest supports four schools and 400 grateful students, and attracts matching funds. A truly free and worthy cause.

Feb. 12 — Puddle Jump Kick-Off Party at the Balboa YC in Panama City, Panama. Latitude's Andy 'Mr. Puddle Jump' Turpin and officials from French

Polynesia will again be on hand to answer everyone's questions and explain the various programs.

March 3-8 — Carnival in Mazatlan. It may not rank with Rio, but Mazatlan's festive Carnival is the best in Mexico and shouldn't be missed.

March 12 - April 1 — El Salvador Rally. This one starts in Mexico and meanders rally style to the Bahia del Sol Hotel in El Salvador, where owner Marco Zablah is again putting up $1,800 in prizes. Bill Yeagan and Jean Strain of the Hawaii-based Irwin 37 Mita Kuuluu started the event last year to raise awareness of the rewards of cruising El Salvador.

racing with friends, but no entry fee.

For those lucky enough to have their boat or be able to charter a boat in the Caribbean, we've got some other suggestions:

March 4-7 — Heineken Regatta. St. Martin. Charter a boat and have a go — but only if you have no objection to competitive racing with several hundred other boats, and heavy drinking fueling wild partying. One of the most popular regattas in the Caribbean, this one is not for sissies.

March 7-8 — Carnival! The biggest is in Trinidad, but there are also great celebrations on all the other islands. Sometimes smaller is more fun, too. On the French Islands, they burn an effigy of Vaval the plantation owner on March 9 for one last evening of fun.

March 24-27 — St. Barth Bucket. where owners of boats over 100 feet long battle to win one of the 40 coveted slots in the fun regatta. The event offers the opportunity to see great yachts, modern and classic, in spectacular sailing conditions. The social scene in the intimate harbor sizzles, too.

March 28 - April 3 — BVI Spring

LATITUDE/NICK

It shouldn't come as an eye-opener that Carnival is by far the most colorful and sexy holiday of the year. You don't want to miss it.

Regatta. Charter a bareboat and let the rum and good times roll. Once again, drinking, partying and sailing go together in the Caribbean, so be prepared.

April 4-9 — Voiles de St. Barth. Antigua Sailing Week as done by the French. C'est tres bien, non?

April 14-19 — Antigua Classic Regatta. for classic and spirit of tradition yachts only. For spectators and/or folks wanting to crew on boats, this is one of the best events in the Caribbean.

April 21-25 — Bequia Easter Regatta. Small island, small regatta, but huge fun! Nothing-serious racing in all kinds of boats, plus countless other activities on one of the best little islands in the Caribbean.

April 24-29 — Antigua Sailing Week. This is the wild and crazy tropical sailing event that launched the concept of sailing weeks for the rest of the world. Although now shortened to just four days and nowhere near as wild as it once was, it's still a prestige event in the Caribbean.

Given all the different islands, cultures and boats in the Caribbean, there is no end to sailing events, particularly in the winter and spring months. All At Sea magazine and Caribbean Compass are two good sources of information.

Wolcott of the Kauai-based M&M 52 cat Kiapa. "If you want really good wine in Mexico, you'll want to bring a whole supply from California. But we found lots of very acceptable wines from the Baja region, and even a handful of exquisite wines, and at great values. Our two favorite labels are Santo Tomas and L.A. Cetto. We found barbera, nebbiolo, (dry) rose, and chardonnay that were muy muy sabrosa. Ensenada is a great place to sample and load up. Once you've identified your favorites, you can find them at the bigger retail outlets in Cabo, La Paz, Mazatlan and Puerto Vallarta."

"Several folks panned Mexican tuna in 'Lectronic as being 'pet food'," note Bruce and Alean Balan of the California-based Cross 45 trimaran Migration. "They are doing folks a disservice. Haven't they ever tried chipotle tuna? Delicious! You also talk about Delo 400 being expensive in Mexico. Well, it's very expensive in New Zealand, as in $24 to $34 U.S. a gallon. We wished we'd lugged 10 gallons across the Pacific. Our great season in Tonga is coming to an end. We're heading back to New Zealand in November, but we'll be stopping at Minerva Reef, where we'll celebrate getting married there a year ago."

"I just read the Lectronic about myths of Mexico," writes Dick Dueck of the Mazatlan-based Cal 2-46 Blue. "One of the myths that needs dispelling is that Delo 400 has to be expensive in Mexico. Total Yacht Works in Mazatlan sells it for $16 U.S. a gallon, plus IVA of 16%. That's about $5 more expensive than at Costco in the States, but I'm happy to pay the extra money so I don't have to lug it around and so I can help keep Total's owner, Robert Buchanan, in business. He's truly one of the really great engine guys in Mexico, and he won't rip you off, do shoddy work, or use substandard parts."

terfront. "I'm thinking about stopping at Altata, which is on the mainland coast of the Sea of Cortez, on the way down. It looks like an interesting place, what with the locals using sails on their pangas to catch shrimp. The bar entrance will, of course, be challenging, but after San Blas, I found that cats like mine love surfing into new places!"

Cruisers love Thailand, and Thailand loves cruisers. But sometimes there are communication issues. That's why the Tourism Authority of Thailand created Speak Thai, a free mobile phone app that "let's you visit Thailand worry-free with over 2,500 words and phrases for all your needs." The press release claims "you can communicate with the Thai people anywhere, anytime, with a few touches. Install this app on your phone, and you'll have the power to speak Thai at your fingertips."

To suggest that one really would have the power to speak Thai at one's fingertips is overselling the app just a smidgen, but it can be very helpful, particularly with understanding the proper way to pronounce common niceties such as

LATITUDE/LAUREN

When in Krabbe, Thailand, you can use the Speak Thai app to ask which side of the navigation you should pass on.

'hello', 'please', 'thank you', and 'where is the bathroom', as well as assist in asking more probing questions, such as, 'Why does the government allow the taxi mafia to rip off all the tourists?' As most people know, there are similar phone apps for all major languages, and they can make life in foreign countries a little easier and a lot more fun.

We intended to run Part Two of Geja's third season in the Med this month, but ran out of space. Since there are lots of lovely photos to go with his report, it will make for even more fun reading in December, wouldn't you agree?

Caribbean 1500 organizers report that as of early October, they had 75 paid entries for the November 1 cruiser rally from Hampton, Virginia, to Tortola in the British Virgins. That's a healthy jump in entries from last year, and if we're not mistaken, an all time record fleet. While most 1500 entries are from the East Coast, a few are from out West. These include Tom and Diane Might of the Scottsdale-based Hallberg-Rassy 62 Between the Sheets; Mike and Sharon Dow of the Gold River, CA-based Bene-teau 49 Charmed Life; and Art Urbin of the San Jose-based Catalina-Morgan 440 Destiny.

the last for founder Steve Black, who has guided the crews of more than 2,000 boats along this route, which is normally much more challenging than the Ha-Ha. Starting next year, the event will be run by World Cruising Ltd, who manage the Atlantic Rally for Cruisers (ARC) and other cruising rallies. As for Black, he's tuning up a nearly new Pacer 42 for cruising in the Caribbean. He deserves it for a job well done over two decades.

"My Virgin Islands-based Hunter 54 Botox Barbie lost her stick in hurricane Earl, and about 12 large boats went up in just Crown Bay, Charlotte Amalie, U.S. Virgin Islands," reports Warren Stryker, "I've seen a lot of hurricanes down here, including the one that sank Fifties Girl, the Bounty II I sailed here from Sausalito nearly 30 years ago. But Earl was a weird one. He barely reached hurricane strength until well after he'd passed us to the north. But then a standing wave and a big gust came out of the west, and 10 or so boats were dispatched to destruction. I'd been onshore watching the area until about 30 minutes before this happened, and everything looked fine. But there were a lot of folks who stayed around to witness the wave, and they swear that it looked like a tsunami."

"A couple of hours later," Stryker continues, "I was diving in zero visibility looking for Barbie's mast, trying to get it from under my mooring, where it was rudely prodding my Barbie's bottom. A couple of days later, John Phillip, my son, dove and found the sunken remains of a friend's boat. The friend generously offered us anything we wanted off her. So the second generation member of Piranha Yacht Renewables sunk his teeth into the heart-breaking remains of an incredibly equipped singlehanded ocean racer. Her 70-ft carbon spar was shattered into multiple pieces with no hope of restoration, so I'm still looking for a replacement stick. But the Piranha was not to go hungry, and the booty will help Barbie find a new mast and get her groove back. Despite all inevitable staph issues after storm diving, breathing all the compressed air seems to have renewed me. I feel like I'm 30 years younger, and will no doubt get it up — the new mast, that is — by Christmas.

ling so badly damaged by being hit while underway by another vessel one night in the Bahamas, I'm no longer 'out there,'" writes John Anderson, who had nearly 10 good years of cruising the Caribbean after starting out from Alameda. "But a cruising forum is reporting that there will be some changes at very popular Elizabeth Harbor at Georgetown in the Exumas. The anchorage will no longer be free, as every boat will have to pay the harbor master $30 a week. There may even be a $2/bag charge for garbage. Because of an overabundance of lazy, rude and inconsiderate floating squatters who pumped their waste overboard, everyone will now be required to use a pump-out service, too. So get ready to 'pay to play'. It's one more free anchorage down the tubes. On the other hand, I've got a feeling that the quality of the '10-'11 cruising fleet will be exponentially improved there."

At the southern end of the Bahamas, Georgetown is often the turnaround point for folks doing a winter cruise from Florida. It's also known as 'Chickentown', for it's here that folks who had planned to continue on to the Eastern Caribbean are faced with some potentially tough open water passages, and more than a few chicken out. We're told that it's not uncommon for there to be 400 boats in Georgetown at the height of the season.

As reported a few months back, Richard and Lori Boren of the Morro Bay-based Pearson 365 Third Day flew up from Mexico in June to buy a Hudson 52 ketch so they'd have a larger cruising boat for what they say will be their family's last season in Mexico. We asked for a comparison of the two boats.

"The good points are that there are now two wooden doors between the kids and us, and her bowsprit is intimidating enough to frighten others from anchoring right in front of us. The downside is that our fuel consumption went up along with our slip fees, and the amount of external teak went from almost none on the Pearson to the equivalent of a Taiwanese teak forest on our new-to-us ketch. But overall, our whole crew loves the new floating house that happens to have sails."

Officials were stunned when tourism in Mexico jumped 20% this summer over last summer. The increase is expected to continue through the winter, as last winter Mexico tourism was savaged by a combination of the H1N1 flu hysteria — remember that mostly non-event? — and fears of narco violence. Americans and Canadians have apparently realized that narco violence in Mexico has so far been restricted to certain known areas — just the way it is in American cities. As a result, Americans and Canadians have been flocking back, to the beach resorts in particular. It's also interesting to note that the Mexican stock market hit an all-time high in mid-October, the peso has risen 5.5% against the dollar in the last few months, and despite the narco violence, major international companies are continuing to make major investments in what is, after all, Latin America's second largest economy after Brazil. Viva Mexico!

Here's to a great new season!

WHAT'S IN A DEADLINE? Our Classified Deadline has always been the 18th of the month, and it's still pretty much a brick wall if you want to get your ad into the magazine. But it's not so important anymore when it comes to getting exposure for your ad. With our new system, your ad gets posted to our website within a day or so of submission. Then it appears in the next issue of the magazine. So you're much better off if you submit or renew your ad early in the month. That way your ad begins to work for you immediately. 55' TAYANA CENTER COCKPIT CUTTER, 1988 Sturdy, well equipped vessel, outfitted by knowledgeable owners for world cruising. Twin wind gen., solar panels, first-class AP, and state-of-the-art navigation aids will take her new owners anywhere. $299,000

See at: www.marottayachts.com

42' HINCKLEY SOU'WESTER, 1989 Deep-keel performance sloop set up for shorthanded. Custom interior plan finished Herreshoff-style white formica bulkheads w/gloss varnished mahogany trim. Meticulously maintained and upgraded; rare on West Coast. $299,000

See at: www.marottayachts.com

50' STEPHENS, 1966 Stephens were all expensive custom builds and this is a prime example. Over $500k spent on her since '04; updated inside/out but retains her original stately lines and elegant ambiance. Possible Sausalito transferable slip. $227,000

See at: www.marottayachts.com

41' SCEPTRE RAISED CABINTOP CUTTER, 1985 Professionally maintained local boat shows VERY nicely inside and out. Leisure Furl in-boom system w/Hood main, Harken roller furler and 105% Hood jib, updated electronics, more. $195,000

See at: www.marottayachts.com

40' BENETEAU FIRST 40.7, 2003 The First 40.7 combines the excitement of a sleek racer with all the comforts of a luxurious cruiser. This one is a well-equipped beauty that shows new inside and out. She's the deep version (preferable for the Bay). $169,000

See at: www.marottayachts.com

43' HANS CHRISTIAN, 1978 Classic offered for sale by original owner. New teak decks (this was a $40,000 job alone!), Awlgrippd hull, updated interior, optional larger diesel and Telstar performance keel. $159,000

See at: www.marottayachts.com

41' CHEOY LEE PEDRICK CENTERBOARD SLOOP, 1982 With upwards of $200k spent on this black-hulled beauty over past 10 years, today she shows bristol. Note repowered in 2007, totally new teak decks in 2004. Transferable Sausalito YH slip. $127,000

See at: www.marottayachts.com

37' HUNTER 376, 1999 Very spacious, light and airy, this vessel shows as new; must see to appreciate. Out-of-country owners motivated; offers encouraged. Sausalito Yacht Harbor slip can be arranged. $89,000

See at: www.marottayachts.com

31' PACIFIC SEACRAFT CUTTER, 1989 Vessel shows very, very nicely. Always been a professionally maintained local boat and has less than 400 hrs on Yanmar dsl. Radar, chartplotter, robust offshore dodger, wheel steering, etc. Transferable Sausalito YH slip. $89,000

See at: www.marottayachts.com

36' UNION CUTTER, 1980 Heavily built full keel canoe sterned classic, designed by Robert Perry and built by the renowned Union yard in Taiwan. Repowered, aluminum mast, rigged. Offers encouraged. Competitively priced at $59,000

See at: www.marottayachts.com

41' MORGAN OUT ISLAND, 1979 Center cockpit ketch. Never cruised and fresh water kept, she shows much newer than actual age. Note all new stainless steel ports. $54,000, offers encouraged.

See at: www.marottayachts.com

38' C&C, 1980 C&C is known for producing fast, good looking and well built boats, and this is a prime example: she shows very nicely (especially her oiled Burma teak interior), is competitively priced and sails like a witch – a very nice combination. $49,000

See at: www.marottayachts.com

38' MORGAN, 1981 Morgans are well known for quality construction and seaworthiness; high D/L ratio of 265 and long fin keel provide a comfortable ride in the Bay's boisterous conditions. Very clean in and out, with recent, dark blue Awlgrip. $45,000

See at: www.marottayachts.com

40' CHALLENGER KETCH, 1973 Recently Awlgrippd in beautiful Flag Blue, renewed brightwork, incredibly spacious below with 6'5" headroom. $39,900

See at: www.marottayachts.com

35' PEARSON SLOOP, 1981 Built in Rhode Island to typical Pearson standards, this is one of the last 35s built and has been a local boat since 1983. In very nice shape, priced right and lying in a transferable Sausalito Yacht Harbor slip. A nice package! $29,000 enjoyable to work with. From shuffling schedules, to emergency haulouts, to staying late, to putting Grand Prix touches on a boat, you guys are top notch. Even though this is coming from a younger guy in the industry, you guys have it DIALED.*

*Thanks again,
Jim Condon, Melges Mafia*
